Latin America and the United States

The Changing Political Realities

JULIO COTLER AND RICHARD R. FAGEN, EDITORS. It is clear today that the realities of Latin America are changing more rapidly than knowledge about those realities, that Latin America can no longer be understood as merely the shadow cast by the Colossus of the North. In an effort to explore the nature of these relations, a group of distinguished social scientists present twenty-two papers covering such topics as the politics of the multinational corporation, military elites and military thinking, and the sources of U.S. foreign policy. Brazilian Serial Documents

A Selective and Annotated Bibliography

By Mary Lombardi

The 1350 entries of Brazilian serial documents listed in this volume are complete through 1971. Since the Brazilian government is one of the chief publishers and entries are arranged by issuing agencies, the guide can also serve as a reference to Brazilian government organizations. An invaluable research tool. 416 pages, index $15.00

The Mexican Revolution and the Catholic Church, 1910-1929

By Robert E. Quirk

This history of the long and dramatic struggle between Church and State in Mexico reads like an eyewitness account. Professor Quirk presents an intelligible overview of the tangled web of events, from the origins of revolutionary sentiment in the nineteenth century to the pragmatic truce worked out by 1929.

An important new book from JOHN TATE LANNING

pedro de la torre

Doctor to Conquerors

Based on obscure manuscripts dating from 1545, Pedro de la Torre is the intriguing story of the man who was physician to the aging Spanish conquerors of Cortés. The book offers a fresh insight into the culture and society of New Spain in the mid-sixteenth century. And nothing in the literature of medical history gives us such an intimate and complete picture of the practice and state of medicine after the Conquest as does the turbulent career of this man. June, $7.50

THE CUBAN INSURRECTION 1952-1959

Ramón L. Bonachea, a militant participant in the Cuban revolution, and his co-author Marta San Martín draw on confidential military reports of the rebel and regular armies, letters from leaders of both sides and a wealth of other previously unpublished material to provide the first intensive study of the struggle against Fulgencio Batista. Challenging the traditional premise that Cuba's insurrection began in the rural areas alone, the authors show that urban guerilla warfare played an important role in Fidel Castro's victory. ILLUSTRATED WITH CHARTS, MAPS AND PHOTOGRAPHS. $12.95 cloth, $4.95 paper, 450 pages.

Included are: Cuban Communism—Irving Louis Horowitz/Mass and Class in the Origins of the Cuban Revolution—Nelson Amaro Victoria/Student Power in Action—Arlie Hochschild/Cuban Agriculture—David Barkin/Cuban Racism—*Geoffrey E. THE LATIN AMERICAN PUBLICATIONS FUND

The Bank of London & South America (now a subsidiary of Lloyds Bank International Ltd.), with the generous support of a number of companies with Latin American interests, established in 1968 a trust fund to encourage and assist the study of Latin American affairs, by financing the publication of original studies that can usefully increase knowledge of the economic, political, social and cultural state of Latin America.

The Fund is ready to finance, wholly or in part, original works on Latin America; preference will be given to works bearing on contemporary affairs and particularly on economic matters. The decision whether to support a work will be taken by the trustees on the advice of the advisory committee.

Applications are invited from interested persons for subventions in aid of publication of suitable works. Further information and copies of the prescribed form of application may be obtained from :

Dr. Harold Blakemore
Secretary, Latin American Publications Fund
Institute of Latin American Studies

NOTES FOR CONTRIBUTORS

Journal of Latin American Studies is published twice a year under the academic sponsorship of the Centres or Institutes of Latin American Studies at the Universities of Cambridge, Glasgow, Liverpool, London and Oxford.

The scope of the journal is the study of Latin America from the standpoint of the social sciences, including anthropology, archaeology, economics, geography, history, international relations, politics, sociology, etc., though it is not concerned with linguistic or literary studies.

Editorial policy avoids commitment to any political viewpoint or ideology, but welcomes free discussion of such issues in the Latin American context, on the understanding that all responsibility for opinions expressed rests exclusively with the author concerned and not with either the journal or its editors.

Contributions are invited from all parts of the world. Articles should generally not be more than 8,000 words long, and two copies, typed with double-spacing, should be submitted. Diagrams and maps may be included by arrangement with the editors. The journal is published in English, but articles written in other languages will be considered, and arrangements made as required for translation into English. Contributors should keep one copy of the typescript for use in correcting proofs.

All contributions and editorial correspondence should be addressed to Journal of Latin American Studies, Institute of Latin American Studies, 31 Tavistock Square, London, WC1H 9HA.

Each contributor will receive, free of charge, 25 offprints of his article and a copy of the issue of the journal in which it appears.
