

THE LAW AND PRACTICE OF THE IRELAND–NORTHERN IRELAND PROTOCOL

The Ireland–Northern Ireland Protocol, part of the Withdrawal Agreement concluded between the European Union and the United Kingdom, is intended to address the difficult and complex impact of Brexit on the island of Ireland, North and South, and between Ireland and Great Britain. It has become an exceptionally important, if controversial, part of the new architecture that governs the relationship between the UK and the EU more generally, covering issues that range from trade flows to free movement, from North–South co-operation to the protection of human rights, from customs arrangements to democratic oversight by the Northern Ireland Assembly. This edited collection offers insights from a wide array of academic experts and practitioners in each of the various areas of legal practice that the Protocol affects, providing a comprehensive examination of the Protocol in all its legal dimensions, drawing on international law, EU law, and domestic constitutional and public law. This title is also available as Open Access.

CHRISTOPHER MCCRUDDEN is Professor of Human Rights and Equality Law at Queen’s University Belfast and L Bates Lea Global Law Professor at the University of Michigan Law School. He is a practising barrister at Blackstone Chambers in London, and has been called to the Northern Ireland Bar, the Irish Bar and the Bar of England and Wales. His main research focus is human rights law. Currently, his research deals with the foundational principles underpinning human rights practice. Professor McCrudden is a Fellow of the British Academy and a Member of the Royal Irish Academy.
