

Acknowledgments

I wish to offer my thanks first and foremost to the many authors who participated in the creation of this book by contributing their thoughtful chapters. I am grateful to Philip V. Bohlman for his help early in the conception of the project, and to Walter Frisch, Gabrielle Spiegel, and my colleagues at the Peabody Institute for offering support and advice. I owe particular gratitude to Victoria Cooper for her enthusiasm about this project when we first discussed it several years ago and her attentive and thoughtful advice throughout the process of assembling the book. I am thankful also to Sara Barnes, Kate Brett, Rebecca Coe, Emma Collison, Fleur Jones, and Rebecca Taylor at Cambridge University Press for their help in bringing the volume to fruition.

As always, my deepest gratitude is due to my family. My parents Judith Schelly and Michael Walden and brother Daniel are my most valuable editors and interlocutors, at all times sharing sage advice and warm support.

