

Editorial

Welcome to Volume 11 Issue 2 of the Journal of Radiotherapy in Practice.

The Journal would like to thank all those who have acted as reviewers, ensuring that our publication is of the highest standard. A full list of reviewers is published as a Supplementary File (online only) to this Editorial [Suppl Mat 1]. In order to recognise the invaluable role reviewers play in the success of the Journal, Cambridge University Press sponsor an award to acknowledge the Best Reviewer, the prize is a book title published by Cambridge University Press. There are so many reviewers who deserve the award, however, for Volume 10; this is awarded to Kris Armoogum, who is based at the Department of Medical Physics at the Royal Derby Hospital, United Kingdom.

The Editorial Board welcomes expressions of interest from individuals who would like to become a reviewer for the Journal, in particular those who are involved in working with new technology or in medical physics. If you are interested, then please send a short Curriculum Vita, no longer than one side of paper to: a.m.duxbury@shu.ac.uk .

I hope you enjoy the variety of papers in this issue of the Journal.

Professor Angela Duxbury
