2009 APSA Annual Meeting & Exhibition

Toronto, Ontario, Canada | September 3-6, 2009

Online Registration

Register today for the Annual Meeting in Toronto. Registering online at www.apsanet.org/2009 is easy and secure.

Travel Arrangements for the 2009 Annual Meeting

The 2009 Annual Meeting marks the first time APSA has hosted the meeting outside of the United States. The following resources are provided to help attendees in securing the appropriate travel documentation and to make the most out of their visit to Toronto. Check www.apsanet.org/2009 for guides to the most up-to-date travel information.

Travel Tips

- Travel to Canada now requires a passport for U.S. citizens, and possibly visas for international members
- Airline tickets should be issued with the full name on your passport
- International members will need a multiple-entry visa if transiting the U.S. to Canada
- Visit the Travel Security Administration website for latest security requirements, www.tsa.gov
- International members should consider round-trip direct flights to Canada without transiting the U.S.
- Apply for passports and any required visas well in advance of the meeting.

Passport Requirements

U.S. citizens must have a valid passport to enter Canada. Be sure to review the U.S. Department of State guidelines at www.travel.state.gov/travel/cbpmc/cbpmc_2223.html and passport information at www.travel.state.gov/passport.

Attendees holding passports from countries other than the United States should review the Government of Canada visa and documentation requirements at www.goingtocanada.gc.ca.

Toronto Tourism Information

For information about travel tips and tourism information for Toronto, visit the Toronto Convention and Visitors site at www.seetorontonow.com.

Program Information

The 2009 Annual Meeting program includes events planned by official program divisions and related groups. The call for proposals period ended in December, 2008 and notifications were sent in March, 2009. You can review the online program at www.apsanet.org/mtgs/program_2009/.

Philosophy for Perspectives on Politics

Perspectives on Politics is a journal of political science that seeks to provide political insight on important problems, as it emerges from rigorous, broad-based research and integrative thought. The editors anticipate authors and readers primarily consisting of political scientists, but also including journalists, policy analysts, public officials and their staff, and other social scientists.

Perspectives enables members of different subfields to speak with one another—and with knowledgeable people outside the discipline—on issues of common interest. Each article must be accessible to and meaningful for readers with much general knowledge of politics but with no specific knowledge of the issue at hand.

The editors aspire to publish contributions that are engaging, illuminating, provocative, and broad-based while retaining the highest standards of scholarly excellence. The editors warmly invite suggestions for articles, symposia, reviews, commentary, and dialogues, as well as other ideas, from political scientists and others concerned with the use of research and careful thinking to address crucial issues and values in the realms of power and politics.

Submission and Review

For submission guidelines, please see the journal's full-length statement of philosophy at www.apsanet.org/perspectives.

Our editorial team discusses all submissions. Those that seem promising are evaluated by several external reviewers—with full confidentiality on both sides—and then accepted, returned for further revisions, or rejected.

Beginning on June 1, all editorial offices of Perspectives will be housed at Indiana University, Bloomington, under the direction of newly appointed Editor Jeffrey C. Isaac. The basic logistics for automated submission of journal articles will remain unchanged, as will the procedures currently in place for the Book Review section. In the September issue, Professor Isaac will introduce his Editorial Board and Editorial Staff and clarify the goals and procedures that will be in place under his leadership.

About APSA

Founded in 1903, the American Political Science Association is the leading professional organization for the study of political science and serves more than 15,000 members in over 80 countries. With a range of programs and services for individuals, departments, and institutions, APSA brings together political scientists from all fields of inquiry, regions, and occupational endeavors within and outside academe in order to expand awareness and understanding of politics.

The direct advancement of knowledge is at the core of APSA activities. We promote scholarly communication in political science through a variety of initiatives including publishing three distinguished journals: American Political Science Review, Perspectives on Politics, and PS: Political Science and Politics.

Centennial Center for Political Science & Public Affairs Research Opportunities in Washington, DC

"I spent a year at the Centennial Center while finishing my dissertation, and I couldn't have asked for a better academic home in the nation's capital. I highly recommend the Center for its top-notch facilities, welcoming staff, and community of fellow political scientists, all right in the heart of Washington."

- Brendan J. Doherty, United States Naval Academy

APSA established the Centennial Center for Political Science and Public Affairs to encourage individual research and writing in all fields of political science, to facilitate collaboration among scholars working within the discipline and across the social and behavioral sciences and humanities, and to promote communication between scholars and policymakers.

The Centennial Center assists scholars from the U.S. and abroad whose research and teaching might benefit from a stay in Washington, D.C. and access to resources available in the nation's capital. The Center also holds events to bring together the scholarly community, policymakers, the media, and the general public for discussions of broad interest.

The Centennial Center features:

- Personal work space
- High speed internet connection and
- Personal telephone extension, fax, and printer access
- Flexible scheduling for long and short-term stays
- Convenient downtown location, Metro accessible
- Meeting and conference room facilities
- Reference library
- Research-in-progress colloquia
- Community of visiting scholars

Funding Opportunities

As a result of generous contributions by members and friends, APSA has developed a number of endowments to support a diverse range of grant programs that may support stays at the Centennial Center.
