

Black Christians and White Missionaries

Richard Gray

In this book one of the world's leading scholars on the history of religion in Africa shows how Christianity has been transformed as it has been adopted by black Africans, from the introduction of Christianity in the seventeenth century to the present. Richard Gray finds that Africans have not meekly accepted monolithic Western practices and interpretations but have appropriated Christian faith for specific needs and added to it insights of their own. $20.00

the author. "No recent book can better clarify South Africa's dilemma.... A thoroughly researched, immensely readable book, a work of vivid reportage and astute political analysis."—San Francisco Chronicle. Through the mirror of the Great Boer Trek, Hochschild illuminates present-day Africa by exploring the turmoil of its past, juxtaposing the events of the 1838 battle of Blood River with scenes from the battlefields of today's South Africa to portray the complex tangled relations between Black and Afrikaner, Boer and British, the A.N.C. and the Homeland leaders, the intractable and those—black and white—eager for change. "Hochschild has a perceptive insight into the workings of the minds of black, white, colored, and Indian South Africans and has woven contemporary and historical events skillfully." —Archbishop Desmond Tutu. 320 pp. Penguin paperback 0-14-011785-7 $10.95
