36th Annual Conference: Strategic Partnerships for Access and Discovery

The 36th Annual IATUL Conference will be held under the heading “Strategic Partnerships for Access and Discovery”. The information business has always been about a network of partners working together in library arenas, rather than individual libraries working in isolation. It is abundantly clear that such collaborations are of great strategic importance, especially when it comes to making access to scientific information easier and faster than ever before—for the benefit of our users.

You can look forward to talks by speakers at the cutting edge of current developments, who will reveal what direction library strategy, management and practice may take. You can also expect absorbing panel discussions, informative workshops and posters, an interesting exhibition as well as an attractive events programme.
