

2014 Written Paper Prizes

The Royal Aeronautical Society Written Paper Prizes are awarded annually for the best papers published in The Aeronautical Journal by the Society during the previous calendar year. Awards can be conferred at Gold, Silver or Bronze level, although no Gold awards are being conferred this year. The Written Paper Prizes are presented at the Sopwith Lecture held at the Royal Aeronautical Society HQ in Hamilton Place, London W1. They are conferred following the approval of the Council of the Royal Aeronautical Society on the basis of recommendations from the RAeS Medals & Awards Committee, supported by the Editor-in-Chief of The Aeronautical Journal. The Society recognises the achievements, innovation and excellence of both individual and multiple authors.

Silver Awards

J McGuirk

The Silver award was given for his paper on 'The aerodynamic challenges of aeroengine gas-turbine combustion systems', The Aeronautical Journal, June 2014, Vol 118, No 1204, pp 557-599

C Hall, A Zachariadis, T Brandvik and N Sohoni

The Silver award was given for their paper 'How to improve open rotor aerodynamics at cruise and take-off', The Aeronautical Journal, October 2014, Vol 118, No 1208, pp 1103-1123

Bronze Awards

F Gandhi, C Duling and F Straub

The Bronze award was given for their paper 'On power and actuation requirement in swashplateless primary control of helicopters using trailing-edge flaps', The Aeronautical Journal, May 2014, Vol 118, No 1203, pp 503-521

G Gratton, R Hoff, A Rahman, C Harbour, S Williams and M Bromfield

The bronze award was given for their paper 'Evaluating a set of stall recovery actions for single engine light aeroplanes' The Aeronautical Journal, May 2014, Vol 118, No 1203, pp 461-484

A Stuermer, J Yin and R Akkermans

The bronze award was given for their paper 'Progress in aerodynamic and aeroacoustic integration of CROR propulsion systems' The Aeronautical Journal, October 2014, Vol 118, No 1208, pp 1137-1158
