

News and Notes

Faculty Fellowships in Ethics Available

The University Center for Ethics and the Professions offers Faculty Fellowships supporting outstanding teachers and scholars who wish to develop their ability to address questions of moral choice in such areas as business, education, government, law, medicine, and public policy. Fellows participate in a weekly seminar discussing problems of research and teaching in ethics. Fellows enjoy opportunities to participate in courses, colloquia, curricular development, collaborative research, study groups, casewriting workshops, and clinical programs. A significant part of their time is devoted to conducting their own research in ethics.

Faculty normally receive stipends equivalent to up to one half of their academic year salaries for the fellowship period September 1 to June 30. The deadline for receipt of applications is Thursday, December 4, 2003. For more information, visit www.ethics.harvard.edu.

Jackson Papers Left to Morehouse College

Former Atlanta Mayor Maynard Jackson, who died June 23, left $3,000 and his political writings to his alma mater, Morehouse College. The money is to be invested to help fund small scholarships for needy political science students with high academic standing who intend to pursue a career in politics. Jackson's political papers include letters, papers, and unpublished manuscripts. Jackson was Atlanta's first African-American mayor. He was mayor from 1974 to 1982 and from 1990 to 1994.

Women & Politics Call for Nominations/Applications

The Haworth Press, Inc., welcomes nominations or applications for the Editorship of the scholarly journal Women & Politics, now entering its 25th year in publication. All correspondence regarding the position should be addressed to Katy Rutz, Vice President, Editorial Development, The Haworth Press, Inc., 10 Alice St., Binghamton, NY 13904

John Carter Brown Library Fellowships

The John Carter Brown Library will award approximately 25 short- and long-term Research Fellowships for the year June 1, 2004–July 31, 2005. Short-term fellowships are available for periods of two to four months and carry a stipend of $1,400 a month. These fellowships are open to foreign nationals as well as to U.S. citizens who are engaged in pre- post-doctoral, or independent, research. Graduate students must have passed their preliminary or general examinations at the time of application and be at the dissertation-writing stage. Long-term fellowships, primarily funded by the National Endowment for the Humanities (NEH) and the Andrew W. Mellon Foundation, are typically for five to nine months and carry a stipend of $3,500 per month. Recipients may not be engaged in graduate work and ordinarily must be U.S. citizens or have resided in the U.S. for the three years immediately preceding the application deadline.

The application deadline for 2004–2005 is January 15, 2004. For more information visit www.JCBL.org.

Conference on State Politics and Policy

On April 30 and May 1, 2004, the department of political science at Kent State University and State Politics and Policy Quarterly will co-sponsor the 4th Annual Conference on State Politics and Policy. All social scientists interested in studying policy at the state level or regional/sub-national policy in other countries are invited to submit papers. A stipend will be awarded to paper-givers to cover a substantial portion of their conference expenses. Deadline for call for papers is November 14, 2003. See the 2004 Conference web site for more details: www.fsu.edu/%7Eestatepol/conferences/2004/2004main.htm. The conference will overlap with the University of Akron's annual Joint Project on Term Limits, April 29–30 2004.