Nishida Kitaro

NISSHITANI KEIJI

Translated by Yamamoto Seisaku and James W. Heisig

With an introduction by D. S. Clarke

Recently books by major figures in Japan's modern philosophical tradition have appeared in English; noticeably missing, however is a book on Nishida Kitaro (1870-1945), Japan's first philosopher of world stature and the originator of the Kyoto School. No one is more qualified to write such a book than Nishitani Keiji, whose lifetime coincides with the rise and flowering of the Kyoto School.

TU MU (803-852)

HIS LIFE AND POETRY

by Wen-kai Kung

xx, 280pp

US $38.50

From the Foreword: "Dr. Kung provides us with an excellent introduction to the life and work of this renowned poet. In addition to a literary biography, the reader will find discussions of Tu Mu's literary diction, his use of allusion and imagery, and a study of his prosodic practice. A noteworthy feature of the treatment of this latter topic is an extensive examination of the rather technical topic of Tu Mu's rhyming practice. While the main contribution of Dr. Kung's work is the area of literary history and criticism, his study of Tu Mu's rhymes will undoubtedly be of relevance to linguists concerned with the history of Chinese phonology during the Tang dynasty....Dr. Kung's book represents an expert and highly readable distillation of the best scholarship on Tu Mu, not only in Western languages and Chinese, but also...in Japanese.....A comprehensive and sure guide to one of the most beloved of T'ang poets." Jerry Norman.

New Journal Announcement • Call for Manuscripts

The Journal of American-East Asian Relations

The Journal of American-East Asian Relations seeks to fill a need long felt by the scholarly communities of the United States and East Asia for a publication that will bring them and their works closer together. The Journal will focus on the history of American-East Asian relations broadly defined: diplomatic, economic, security, cultural. It will not, however, exclude scholarly discussions of recent or even contemporary affairs.

We believe the time has come to launch such a journal in view of the impressive achievements attained by specialists in the field. There has been increasing interaction among scholars interested in American-East Asian relations, in the United States, China, Japan, Korea, and elsewhere in Asia. And yet few scholars in the United States are aware of scholarly productions in the Asian countries, and specialists in one Asian country mostly remain ignorant of what goes on in the scholarly communities in other countries. The Journal will, it is hoped, serve as a channel of communication and information for all such scholars.

We intend to publish articles of high scholarly quality and invite interested scholars in all countries to submit essays written in English. We shall follow the usual practice of reviewing all submissions by external referees in order to ensure high scholarly standards.

Editor:

Michael A. Barnhart
SUNY Stony Brook

Co-Chairs, Editorial Advisory Board:

Akira Iriye
Harvard University

Warren I. Cohen
Michigan State University

The Journal of American East-Asian Relations will be published quarterly in the Spring, Summer, Fall, and Winter, beginning with the Spring 1992 issue, by Imprint Publications, Inc., in cooperation with the Committee on American-East Asian Relations. The Editor as well as the Co-Chairs of the Editorial Advisory Board have long served on this Committee, a nationwide scholarly committee devoted to the further development of the field. The Committee is affiliated with the Society for Historians of American Foreign Relations.

For further information, contact the publisher: Imprint Publications, Inc., Phone (312) 642-2768
Attn: Anthony Cheung, Fax (312) 642-7070
100 East Ohio Street Suite 630
Chicago, Illinois 60611, U.S.A.

Submission of Manuscripts: The Journal will accept manuscripts for major articles, review essays, and book reviews; it will only accept manuscripts written in English that are original, have never been published previously, and are not submitted elsewhere for consideration for publication. Send 5 good copies with author's bio and contact information to: Michael A. Barnhart, Editor, The Journal of American-East Asian Relations, Imprint Publications, Inc., 100 East Ohio Street, Suite 630, Chicago, Illinois 60611, U.S.A. All copies will remain property of the publisher. Manuscripts, preferably 30 to 40 pages in length for major articles, must be typed double-spaced with complete footnotes, prepared according to The Chicago Manual of Style (13th ed., 1982). Manuscripts not conforming to style may be returned without review. Authors will be notified of receipt of their manuscripts within two weeks. Submitted manuscripts are sent to members of the Editorial Advisory Board or other established scholars for review.

Statistical Yearbook for Asia and the Pacific

This latest Yearbook provides fundamental data on the economic and social status of the region. By compiling national data in a format which allows international comparison, the Yearbook allows quicker and easier access to information. A wealth of data can be found for each country including: population, manpower, national accounts, agriculture, forestry and fishing, industry-energy supplies, consumption, transportation and communications, internal and external trade, wages and banking. This data is also compiled on both national and regional levels.

The Ethnic Question Conflicts, Development and Human Rights

by Rudolfo Stavenhagen

Development failures cannot be accounted for by referring only to financial, economic, or technological causes. Experts and policy-makers are now beginning to recognize the importance of the ethnic component in influencing development. This book presents a comprehensive picture of contemporary ethnic issues as manifested in most of the world's major regions including the extent of ethnic rights' protection in the United Nations and other international systems; the special problems of indigenous and tribal peoples; rising racism in Western Europe and the cultural and educational policies of governments in relation to ethnic minorities.

Professor Paksoy's study sheds light on The Book of Dede Korkut. It shows not only how the Alpamysh epic is preserved in the cycle of the "Bamsi Beyrek of the Grey Horse," but also what processes the latter story, and possibly the other stories in the collection have undergone after the transplantation of the Goghuz from Central Asia to Anatolia.

Iraj Bashiri - University of Minnesota

I have only the highest praise for its scholarship. It combines a solid examination of the dastan with an illuminating case study of the importance of the collective memory for the maintenance of ethnic and community identity.

Keith Hitchins - University of Illinois, Urbana-Champaign

H. B. Paksoy masterly reconstitutes the shabby saga of Tsarist/Soviet efforts first to muzzle this authentic vox populi and then to pervert the message of these texts, now with such petty means as alphabetical/orthographic discrepancies, artificially introduced to limit popular access to such or such variant, then through "softer" and more subtle methods such as various "refinements" of the text itself, i.e. in fact outward, fraudulent rewriting of it.

Guy Imart - Universite De Provence, Aix Marseille I

Dr. Paksoy's absorbing book contains, besides a text and annotated translation, the story of its fortunes under successive Russian regimes and a concise account of Soviet language policy. This policy has largely succeeded in persuading the scholarly world that the various Turkish dialects of Central Asia are so many distinct languages.

Geoffrey L. Lewis - Oxford University

Dr. Paksoy has with the publication of his book rendered a great service... Dr. Paksoy's work on this genuine Turkic literary monument will be received with great satisfaction everywhere. In addition I would like to express my admiration for Dr. Paksoy's wide reading in a field which has always been connected with difficulty of access.

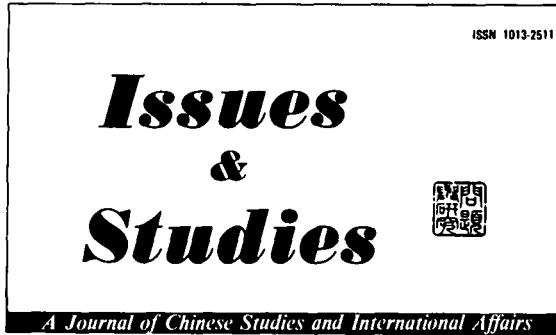

Ambassador Gunnar Jarring - Sweden

In this work readers can find two impressive stories: one is the heroic story of Alpamysh commonly known in whole Central Asia and the other the admirable story of Central Asians' persistent efforts to defend their national heritage.

Hisao Komatsu - School of Letters, Tokai University

Dr. Paksoy has done a beautiful job with the dastan Alpamysh. The work is meticulously and exactly done, and presented clearly.

Wayne S. Vucinich - Stanford University.

Laogai—The Chinese Gulag

Hongda Harry Wu

"An important and unique book. It is a pioneer work on a vast subject. The author's personal experience animates and informs the book and gives it its passion, but it is a work of solid research, introducing many new facts that other researchers haven't tried or haven't been able to uncover. The facts Mr. Wu has accumulated are crucial for understanding the workings of the Chinese regime under both Mao and Deng."

Popular Protest and Political Culture in Modern China

Learning from 1989

edited by Jeffrey N. Wasserstrom and Elizabeth J. Perry

This volume is the most comprehensive effort to date to take stock of the reconsiderations fueled by the 1989 movement. While it does not seek to present a unified interpretation, taken as a whole the book makes a compelling case for the need to find new ways of understanding the important role that culture plays in shaping political action.

PURPOSE AND ORGANIZATION

The Association for Asian Studies is a scholarly, non-political, and non-profit professional association open to all persons interested in Asia and the study of Asia. It seeks through publications, meetings, and seminars to facilitate contact and exchange of information among scholars and to increase understanding of Asia. The Association for Asian Studies is the largest society of its kind in the world. Its 7,000 members include scholars, teachers, business people, diplomats, journalists, and interested laypersons.

Founded in 1941 as the Far Eastern Association, the organization was renamed the Association for Asian Studies in 1957 to reflect the wider geographic interests of its membership. In 1970, four elective area Councils—South Asia, Southeast Asia, China and Inner Asia, and Northeast Asia—were established to guarantee each area constituency its own representation and a proportionate voice on the Board of Directors. In 1977, a Council of Conferences was established as a liaison with eight regional conferences throughout the United States to serve the needs of those interested in Asian studies in different parts of the country. The Association is a member of the American Council of Learned Societies and the National Council of Area Studies Associations, actively participating with its sister societies in a wide range of activities, including joint participation in research and informational exchanges.

Publications of the Association include The Journal of Asian Studies, the Bibliography of Asian Studies, Doctoral Dissertations on Asia, the Asian Studies Newsletter, the Monograph Series, and committee publications. The Association holds a three-day meeting each spring devoted to planned programs of scholarly papers, round table discussions and panel sessions on a wide range of problems in research and teaching, and on Asian affairs in general. From time to time, it sponsors, through its committees, special conferences on research problems and other matters of topical interest.

Janet Goff

The Japanese noh theater has enjoyed a rich, continuous history dating back to the Muromachi period. Some of the finest plays were inspired by the eleventh-century masterpiece, The Tale of Genji. In this detailed study of fifteen noh plays based upon the Genji, Janet Goff looks at how the novel was understood and appreciated by Muromachi audiences.

Goff includes annotated translations of the plays, many of them appearing in English for the first time. The translations are preceded by essays covering the history of each play and its use of Genji material.

"Until now almost nothing has been written in English about Japanese medieval interpretations of the classics. In this sense Goff's work is ground breaking, and I hope it will be the first of a series of books on this broad and important subject."—Karen Brazell, Cornell University

Perhaps no aspect of early Chinese history and culture has prompted more controversy than that associated with the ancient State of Chu. This major new volume of essays offers the most comprehensive and current analysis of Chu culture during the Eastern Zhou period (770–221 B.C.) in a Western language.
