

Editorial

1994 has been a productive year for the Journal. We received 540 papers and have been able to publish 285 to date. I am grateful to all our Assistant Editors and Advisers for carrying the bulk of this work. Sadly Dr Kenneth MacClelland, through pressures of work is unable to continue as a Pathology Adviser. I welcome Mr Michael Rothera who will be joining the Assistant Editors in January. In January also we hope to start a new occasional section entitled Oncology in Focus.

The Journal offers congratulations to Professor Richard Ramsden who has recently been appointed to a personal chair at the University of Manchester.

The following have kindly acted as referees during 1994. I am very conscious of their generous assistance to the Journal and thank them all.
