

MODERN AMERICAN HISTORY

Volume 5, Issue 1, March 2022

Articles

Step by Step: American Interracialism and the Origins of Talk-First Activism

Connor S. Kenaston

The promise and perils of “first steps” dialogue and friendship as an approach to making the world a better place

1

Solidarity as an Emotion: American Jews and Israel in 1948

Derek Penslar

How emotions factored into American Jewish fundraising during the Arab-Israeli War

27

Partisanship and Permanence: How Congress Contested the Origins of the Interstate Highway System and the Future of American Infrastructure

Teal Arcadi

When battles over how to fund the nation’s most expensive and expansive public works project set in motion near-limitless development

53

The Fire Inside: Women Protesting AIDS in Prison since 1980

Emma Day

Organizing behind bars for adequate medical care in an age of prison privatization

79

Below the Fold

Q&A

The VISITOR’S CORNER with Malinda Maynor Lowery

A conversation about craft, community, what it means to name one’s place, and claim one’s people

101

Into the Stacks

Cowboys and the Imperial Ecology of Beef

Aaron Hiltner

New thinking about an old icon

109