

Contributors

Bette Anton, M.L.S., is the Head Librarian of the Pamela & Kenneth Fong Optometry and Health Sciences Library. This library serves the University of California, Berkeley–University of California, San Francisco Joint Medical Program and the University of California, Berkeley School of Optometry.

Eva Bading, M.D., is Associate Professor and Chair, Department of Family Medicine, Loyola University Chicago Stritch School of Medicine, Maywood, Illinois.

Carol Bayley, Ph.D., is Vice President for Ethics and Justice Education at Catholic Healthcare West, a large multihospital health system with services in California, Arizona, and Nevada. She is responsible for education in applied ethics for physicians, nurses, residents, staff, and ethics committees, and the integration of ethical concerns into the organization's business decisions.

Kate T. Christensen, M.D., F.A.C.P., is an internist and Medical Director of the Internet Services Group for the Permanente Medical Group in Northern California.

Julia E. Connelly, M.D., is Professor of Medicine and Co-Director of the Program of the Humanities in Medicine at the University of Virginia School of Medicine in Charlottesville, where she has been a faculty member since 1983. She specializes in primary care, internal medicine, and medical psychiatry.

Joseph C. d'Oronzio, Ph.D., M.P.H., is the Raoul Wallenberg Professor in Human Rights, Rutgers University. He is also a Faculty Associate of the Columbia University Center for Bioethics and on leave from the Department of Health Policy and Management of the Mailman School of Public Health at Columbia. He is a bioethics consultant and is a regular contributor to CQ's Ethics Committees at Work section.

David J. Doukas, M.D., is Senior Fellow at the Center for Bioethics and Associate Professor of Family Practice and Community Medicine at the University of Pennsylvania. Dr. Doukas teaches and conducts research on bioethics in the primary-care setting, virtue ethics in medical education, end-of-life decisionmaking, and human genetics. He is Co-Chair of the American Society for Bioethics and Humanities Task Force on Graduate Medical Education in Bioethics and Humanities.

Jeffrey S. Groeger, M.D., is Medical Director of the Intensive Care Unit and a member of the Ethics Committee at Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center, New York City.

Contributors

Beverly Henry, Ph.D.(c), is the Director for Continuing Medical Education in Education Program Administration, Loyola University Chicago Stritch School of Medicine, Maywood, Illinois.

Paul B. Hofmann, Dr.P.H., is Vice President of Provenance Health Partners, Moraga, California. He is a Fellow of the American College of Healthcare Executives, a member of its Leadership Advisory Committee, and the College's consultant on healthcare management ethics.

Insoo Hyun, Ph.D., is Assistant Professor of Philosophy and Associate Director of the Center for the Study of Ethics in Society at Western Michigan University.

Kenneth V. Iserson, M.D., M.B.A., is Professor of Surgery (Emergency Medicine), Director of the Program in Bioethics, and Chair of the Bioethics Committee at the University of Arizona College of Medicine, Tucson.

Mark G. Kuczewski, Ph.D., is Director of the Neiswanger Institute for Bioethics and Health Policy, Loyola University Chicago Stritch School of Medicine, Maywood, Illinois.

Mary Langbein, M.S., is Assistant Dean for Educational Affairs, Loyola University Chicago Stritch School of Medicine, Maywood, Illinois.

Gregory L. Larkin, M.D., M.S.P.H., M.S., FACEP, is Professor of Surgery, Emergency Medicine, and Public Health and Director of Academic Development at Parkland Memorial Hospital, University of Texas, Southwestern Medical Center at Dallas.

Marguerite S. Lederberg, M.D., is Attending Psychiatrist and a member of the Ethics Committee at Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center, New York City.

Stephen McPhee, M.D., is Professor of Medicine at the University of California, San Francisco. Interested in the overlap of medicine and spirituality, he has authored several previous articles on medical error.

Michael Mendiola, Ph.D., is Associate Professor of Christian Ethics at the Pacific School of Religion, Berkeley, California, and is currently working on a book on the nature of human suffering. He is Coordinator of the Bay Area Faith and Health Consortium.

Jonathan D. Moreno, Ph.D., is Emily Davie and Joseph S. Kornfeld Professor of Biomedical Ethics and Director of the Center for Biomedical Ethics at the University of Virginia. He is also a member of the National Human Research Protections Advisory Committee.

Craig Pollack, M.S., is a medical student at the University of California, San Francisco. Interested in pursuing a career in internal medicine, his past research has focused on mourning and bereavement in Bosnia-Herzegovina.

Kenneth Prager, M.D., is Clinical Professor of Medicine at Columbia College of Physicians and Surgeons, Director of Clinical Ethics, and Chairman of the Medical Ethics Committee at New York-Presbyterian Hospital, Columbia Presbyterian Center.

David T. Rubin, M.D., is Assistant Professor in the Section of Gastroenterology at the University of Chicago and a faculty member in the MacLean Center for

Contributors

Clinical Medical Ethics. His research interests include ethical issues of gastrointestinal diseases and genetic testing.

Mark Siegler, M.D., is Lindy Bergman Distinguished Service Professor, Professor of Medicine, and Director of the MacLean Center for Clinical Medical Ethics at the University of Chicago, Illinois.

Patricia M. Surdyk, Ph.D., is Senior Project Manager in the Research Department of the Accreditation Council for Graduate Medical Education (ACGME), Chicago, Illinois.

Griffin Trotter, M.D., Ph.D., is Associate Professor and Director of Consultation and Residents, Ethics Education, in the Center for Health Care Ethics at Saint Louis University, Missouri, with a secondary appointment in the Department of Surgery, Emergency Medicine Division.

Mary A. Weiser, J.D., is In-House Counsel and member of the Ethics Committee at Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center, New York City.

William Hogarth, Consultation of Physicians, engraving, National Library of Medicine.