

Illustrations

---

Figures

1.1	Map illustrating the sizes of Japanese overseas communities around the Pacific Rim	page 25
1.1	A reprint of The Landing of the Pilgrim Fathers, Hokkaido Kaitaku Zasshi	48
1.2	Native people of Karafuto, Hokkaido Kaitaku Zasshi	51
1.3	Hokkaido Kaitaku Zasshi introducing different types of salmon in Hokkaido	53
1.4	A new wheat-cutting tool in the United States, Hokkaido Kaitaku Zasshi	55
1.5	Native Americans in a guidebook for Japanese migration to the United States	62
2.1	“Conflict of races” among the Caucasians, the Chinese, and the Japanese	76
2.2	Map depicting the location of Hawai‘i at the center of the sea route connecting Japan and the American West Coast	83
2.3	Map of Mexican territory	85
2.4	Image depicting the primitivity of Mexican farmers	91
2.5	Map depicting Japanese expansion to the South Seas and Latin America	96
3.1	Magazine cover celebrating Japan’s victory in the Sino-Japanese War	111
3.2	Symbol of the Striving Society from 1905	116
3.3	Symbol of the Striving Society from 1909	125
4.1	Map of Texas	138
5.1	Members of an American congressional committee investigating the Japanese picture brides	158
5.2	Japanese immigrants in Brazil harvesting cotton in the field	171
5.3	Hundreds of bags of rice produced by Japanese immigrants in the state of São Paulo	172

5.4	Kaikō poster from around the mid-1920s to recruit Japanese for Brazilian migration	176
5.5	Magic lantern slide depicting the family of Nakamura Sadao	177
6.1	Cartoons highlighting Brazil as the ideal place for surplus people in Japan	196
6.2	Map illustrating the standard sea route for Japanese migration to Brazil in the 1920s	201
7.1	The six prefectures that exported the largest numbers of migrants to Manchuria	207
7.2	Map marking the land prices of different states in Brazil	215
7.3	Cartoon promoting the slogan of coexistence and coprosperity ( Kyōzon Dōei ) as a spirit of the Producer's Cooperative Association	217
7.4	Front cover of the inaugural issue of Ie no Hikari , May 1925	219
7.5	Cover of a brochure for the migration of Japanese owner-farmers to Brazil, March 1932	221
8.1	World map recalculating the land sizes of major countries and continents based on the sizes of their populations	238
C.1	Display board at the Overseas Migration Museum in Yokohama	268
C.2	Section of the exhibition "We Join the New World" titled "Toil in the Soil"	270

Tables

5.1	Annual numbers of Japanese migrants to Brazil and Manchuria in comparison (1932–1939)	165
6.1	Comparison of the size of arable land and population among the countries of the world in 1924	188
6.2	Comparison of Japanese migration to Brazil, the continental United States, and Hawai'i, 1906–1941	195
8.1	Government-subsidized Japanese migration to Brazil, 1955–1965	260