From one of the nation's leading experts on international trade law...

The World Trading System Law and Policy of International Economic Relations John Jackson

This clear and accessible introduction to the intricacies of the world trading system identifies the features and precedents of the GATT, analyzes the many interconnections between the GATT and U.S. constitutional and trade laws, and evaluates its future.

Recognizing that trade law and trade policy are constantly in flux, Jackson focuses on the institutions and on the legal rules and constraints that shape those institutions and the policies of international trade.

INNOVATION IN INTERNATIONAL LAW

Richard Falk, General Editor

Editorial Advisory Board

Georges Abi-Saab
Antonio Cassese
Samuel S. Kim
Yasuaki Onuma
Edith Brown Weiss
Burns Weston

Change and challenge are pervasive features of the global setting. International law has exhibited considerable capacity for adaptation and creativity. To nurture this capacity we are sponsoring a series of publications that call attention to new problematic areas of international life and offer policy recommendations about what law and lawyers might contribute by way of interim adjustment, if not solution.

Proposals welcome, but submissions should be fairly well developed.

First volume in the series:

IN FAIRNESS TO FUTURE GENERATIONS: International Law, Common Patrimony, and Intergenerational Equity By Edith Brown Weiss

"...In this book, Professor Weiss . . . manages to communicate to the reader not only that the situation is getting desperate but also that human intelligence can in time devise adequate remedies, without destroying completely our way of life. . . ."

Louis B. Sohn

"...in an attempt to give law a new vision and 'evoking a planetary ethos,' Professor Weiss enriches legal thinking at a time when law requires a very serious and truly new approach. . . ."

LETTERS OF CREDIT: The Law and Current Practice, 3rd Edition

Lazar Sarna

This completely up-to-date reference work is the only one of its kind in Canada to deal exclusively with letters of credit. It sets out the law of letters of credit. And it examines the mechanics and operation of letter of credit transactions from several viewpoints including: the issuing bank; the intermediate bank; the applicant and the beneficiary. Coverage includes such topics as: contractual issues • rules of agency • common commercial practice • remedies.

The work analyzes the international character of the modern letter of credit in the context of today's business. It draws on cases from Canada, the U.S. and the U.K. Included is the important Supreme Court of Canada decision in the Angelica-Whitewear v. Bank of Nova Scotia.

The universal code of credit issuers — Uniform Customs and Practice For Documentary Credits — is also examined. The Appendix contains completely up-to-date documents used in this area.

Comes with annual releases for continued currency.

GENERAL PRINCIPLES OF LAW as applied by INTERNATIONAL COURTS AND TRIBUNALS

Bin Cheng

formerly Professor of International Law, University College, London

A major presentation of general principles of law as used by international tribunals in relation to such subjects as self-preservation, good faith, State responsibility and judicial proceedings. It is invaluable to all concerned in the application and development of international law and comparative law, whether as academics, advisers, advocates or judges. This study remains as helpful today as when it was first published in 1953.

THE DEVELOPMENT OF INTERNATIONAL LAW BY THE INTERNATIONAL COURT

Sir Hersch Lauterpacht, Q.C., F.B.A.,

Judge of the International Court of Justice

This work received the Annual Award of the American Society of International Law in 1960:—

“The entire book is characterized by matchless depth and subtlety of inquiry and exposition and by many brilliant insights. It is unsurpassed as a contribution to our understanding of the judicial function in the development of international law and is certain to preserve its high value as such for many decades to come”.

THE WEHRMACHT WAR CRIMES BUREAU, 1939-1945

By Alfred M. de Zayas

Foreword by Howard S. Levie

“Every victim of inhumanity, regardless of nationality, race, or creed, should be entitled to the equal protection of the law. The stated primary purpose of this interesting and well-written work is to help minimize the violations of international law in any future armed conflicts. If that goal is to be achieved, it is not enough merely to know that the rules are often broken by all sides. The de Zayas book sheds light on a problem that has not yet been resolved.” – Benjamin B. Ferencz, American Journal of International Law. The Wehrmacht War Crimes Bureau, 1939-1945 is the only account to date of the German investigations of war crimes allegedly committed by the Allied armies against the Nazi regime. $15.95 paper, $42.95 cloth

JUSTIFYING INTERNATIONAL ACTS

Lea Brilmayer

In this challenging interdisciplinary book, Brilmayer seeks to alter the terms in which we discuss the ethics of international relations. She offers brilliant analyses of international jurisdictional issues and provides original discussions of some of the traditional questions of international law. "An illuminating, highly original work. If Brilmayer's thesis is widely accepted—and I think it should be—this book will become one of the very few modern classics on the theory of international ethics."—David Luban, University of Maryland. $19.95

UNIVERSAL HUMAN RIGHTS IN THEORY AND PRACTICE

Jack Donnelly

Donnelly here looks closely at the theoretical issues and practical dilemmas involved in protecting human rights internationally. Donnelly argues that understanding human rights as universal moral rights is completely compatible with recognizing their historical contingency and particularity. "Well-organized, persuasively argued, and powerfully written, this book helps to clarify what human rights are, what action may be taken to promote their observance, and the trade-offs between human rights and economic development."—Robert O. Matthews, University of Toronto. $12.95 paper, $36.50 cloth

INTERNATIONAL COOPERATION

Building Regimes for Natural Resources and the Environment

Oran R. Young

Young here seeks both to develop our theoretical grasp of international regimes and to expand the range of empirical applications of this line of analysis. He provides case studies of four key types of international cooperation: marine fisheries management; licensing arrangements for deep-seabed mining; international guidelines for responses to future nuclear accidents; and the resolution of conflicts between Canada and the United States over rights to arctic shipping. $10.95 paper, $32.50 cloth
