warmly supported the Glasgow Medical Missionary Society. Work for the protection of women and children always found in him a good friend. All these things were the outcome of deep religious conviction.

"After his retirement in 1901 Dr. Yellowlees continued to live in Glasgow until the autumn of 1919, when he returned to Edinburgh to spend the last eighteen months of his life. He is survived by his wife, a daughter and two sons, both of whom are in the medical profession. Dr. David Yellowlees is in practice in Stirling; Dr. Henry Yellowlees is Senior Assistant Physician to the Royal Edinburgh Asylum."

The following is an appreciation from the pen of Sir George Savage:

"Now the father of the Association has gone, and only few survivors of the old brigade remain to recall the earlier and more active connection of Yellowlees with our body. I believe before the Association had a corporate existence that some of the northern superintendents used to meet at each other's asylums for social reunions. I believe Yellowlees with Ley Rogers, Mould and Clouston formed the centre of this union, but this is very long ago and before my time. Elected a Member of the Association in 1862, he was a very regular attendant at the meetings, whether in Scotland or England. He generally spoke briefly and to the point, and he always carried weight. He was a true Scot, and his genial welcome and his humour did everyone good to meet him, for though strong in his views and willing to support them, he was not a man of one view. I shall not speak of his professional work; this will be for some compatriot to enlarge upon. Personally I was always attracted by him. He was happily married and proud of his family. I do not think that he was given to sport; his life seemed to be too full of work for the fringes of games to come in. He belonged to the old convinced religious school of thought, and his religion was a real part of his life. With advancing years he slowly lost his sight, but this did not prevent him from continuing his useful social work or even from attending some of our meetings. There was no year he showly lost his sight, but this did not prevent min from containing moseful social work or even from attending some of our meetings. There was no crying over his fate: he accepted it in a truly Christian Spirit. So he lived in the memory and affection of his friends, and now leaves a savour of sweetness and light which we may well envy."

THE ASSOCIATION LIBRARY.

MEMBERS of the Association are reminded that the Library at 11, Chandos Street, W., is open daily for reading and for the purpose of borrowing books. Arrangements have been made with Messrs. Lewis to enable the Association to obtain books from the Lending Library belonging to that firm should any member desire a book not in the Library. The following medical periodicals are circulated amongst such members as intimate their desire to have them:

The American Journal of Insanity.

The International Journal of Psychoanalysis. Sournal of Neurology and Psycho-Pathology. L'Encephale.

Application for books should be addressed to the Resident Librarian, Medico-Psychological Association, 11, Chandos Street, Cavendish Square, W.

Other communications should be addressed to the undersigned at the City of London Mental Hospital, Dartford, Kent.

Secretary to the Library Committee.
