

---

CONTRIBUTORS

---

Bradley Richard is a senior lecturer in the Department of Philosophy, Logic and Scientific Method at the London School of Economics. He has published mainly in decision theory and hypothetical reasoning, but has wide interests in the conceptual and normative foundations of the social sciences.

Fioretti Guido completed a Ph.D in political economy after graduating in electrical engineering. His research combines economics with cognitive sciences. He has also worked in the areas of decision theory, business cycles, industrial districts and monetary economics.

Guala Francesco is a lecturer in philosophy at the University of Exeter. His main research interests are in the area of methodology of the social sciences. Recent work includes 'Building economic machines', Studies in History and Philosophy of Science, 2001 and 'Artefacts in experimental economics', Economics and Philosophy, 2000.

Janssen Maarten is Professor of Microeconomics at Erasmus University. His research interests are in game theory and its applications to industrial organization. He has written a book entitled Microfoundations and has published several articles about the methodological status of solution concepts in game theory.

Mongin Philippe is a Senior Research Professor at Ecole Polytechnique and Centre National de la Recherche Scientifique in Paris. He is currently Lachmann Visiting Professor at the London School of Economics. He has published a number of articles in economics and philosophy journals about the foundations of normative economics, social choice theory, decision theory, and philosophical logic, and he is now preparing a book, Epistémologie économique.

Pettit Philip is Professor of Social and Political Theory at the Research School of Social Sciences, Australian National University, and a regular Visiting Professor of Philosophy at Columbia University. He is author of Republicanism: A Theory of Freedom and Government (OUP, 1997), Three Methods of Ethics (Routledge, 1997, with M. Baron and M. Slote) and The Common Mind: An Essay on Psychology, Society and Politics (OUP, 1993). He also has a new book in press, A Theory of Freedom: From the Psychology to the Politics of Agency (Polity Press, UK and OUP, US, 2001).

Psillos Stathis obtained his Ph.D from King's College London and worked at the London School of Economics between 1995 and 1998. He now teaches philosophy of science at the University of Athens. His book, Scientific Realism: How Science Tracks Truth, was published by Routledge in 1999. Currently he is working on a book on causation and explanation.

CONTRIBUTORS

Quesada Antonio obtained a Ph.D in economics from the Universitat Autònoma de Barcelona in 1999. He has taught at the Universidad de Murcia since 2000.

Skog Ole-Jørgen is a professor of Sociology at the University of Oslo, and Scientific Director at the Centre for Advanced Study, the Norwegian Academy of Science and Letters.

Verbeek Bruno is a postdoctoral research fellow with the Social and Political Theory Program of the Research School of Social Sciences at the Australian National University.