

MODERN AMERICAN HISTORY

Volume 4, Issue 1, March 2021

Articles

Chinese Elites and U.S. Gatekeeping: Racial Discrimination and Class Privilege in Boston's 1905 King Incident

Emma J. Teng

When the detention of four wealthy students sparked international controversy and altered the trajectory of restrictive U.S. immigration policies 1

Colonizing Workers: Labor, Race, and U.S. Military Governance in the Southern Philippines

Oliver Charbonneau

The drive to create disciplined laborers in the Moro Province comprised the U.S. military's longest-lived and most extensive contribution to Progressive Era race management schemes 25

Plainclothes Policewomen on the Trail: NYPD Undercover Investigations of Abortionists and Queer Women, 1913–1926

Elizabeth Evens

The early twentieth-century state was more innovative and invested in policing so-called deviant female sexuality than previously understood 49

How the Rockefeller Laws Hit the Streets: Drug Policing and the Politics of State Competence in New York City, 1973–1989

Mason B. Williams

How new ideas in policing and fiscal revival fueled street-level drug enforcement 67

Below the Fold

Q&A

On the Experiences of Black Historians

Stefan M. Bradley, Amira Rose Davis, Adriane Lentz-Smith, and Chad Williams

Reflections on anti-Black racism and other problems in the profession as well as the important role historical awareness must play in confronting them 91

Into the Stacks

Tammany Hall and the Machine Style in Black Politics

Matthew Vaz

A largely forgotten memoir sheds light on urban power dynamics and the transition of Black voting alliances in the mid-twentieth century

103