

cambridge.org/pax

David H. Xiang, B.A.

Harvard Medical School, Boston, MA

Poetry

Cite this article: Xiang DH (2022). Q & A @ End-of-life. Palliative and Supportive Care 20, 298–298. <https://doi.org/10.1017/S1478951521001528>

Received: 14 August 2021
Accepted: 23 August 2021

Author for correspondence:
David H. Xiang, Harvard Medical School,
25 Shattuck Street, Boston, MA 02115, USA.
E-mail: dxiang@hms.harvard.edu or a fractal of morphine imagination

A why do good people die so soon
Q imagine you are in your garden
A I am here
Q which flower would you pick first
A a red one, flaming in orange
Q why those colors
A or the night blue, speckled with purple
Q is that the most beautiful?
A it is
Q why did you pick the most beautiful one
A it reminds me of sunset in August
Q is sunset a good person
A we had a good life together
Q what did it feel like
A like taking the last train home
Q how far can it last
A it is a tough existence
Q what about curiosities
A we understood each other
Q do you miss her
A I miss her every morning
Q are you ready
A for what
Q you know what
A I have no real regrets
Q how about fake ones
A why must we choose
Q the most beautiful flower?
A no
Q then tell me
A that is a contradiction
Q are you dying
A I am talking to you
Q is this a dream
A only if you close your eyes

Conflict of interest. There are no conflicts of interest.

© The Author(s), 2021. Published by Cambridge University Press

CAMBRIDGE
UNIVERSITY PRESS

