

plementation is the responsibility of the hospital diagnosing and admitting non-accidentally injured children or the statutory authority under whose legal jurisdiction the family fall. Some families may need a therapy entirely different from this; perhaps aimed only at the parents' problems or based on different techniques. What is clear is that enough has been done worldwide on diagnosing and delineating the problem of child abuse; what is needed in Australia is a viable treatment programme for these families.

References:

1. Kempe, H. C. & Helfer, R. E. Helping the battered child and his family. Philadelphia: J. B. Lippincott Co., 1972.
2. Bernal, M. E., Behavioural feedback in the modification of brat behaviour. Journal of Nervous and Mental Disease, 1969.
3. Hawkins, R. P., Peterson, E. F., Schwied, E. and Bijou, S. W. Behaviour therapy in the home: amelioration of problem parent-child relations with the parent in the therapeutic role. Journal of Experimental Child Psychology, 1966.
4. Wolf, M. M., Giles, D., Hall, R. V., Experiments with token reinforcement in a remedial classroom. Behaviour Research and Therapy, 1968.
5. Risley, T., The effects and side effects of punishing the autistic behaviours of an autistic child. Journal of Applied Behaviour Analysis, 1968.
6. Christophersen, E. R., Barnard, J. D., Ford, D. & Wolf, M. M. The Family Training Programme: Improving Parent-Child Interaction Patterns. In Mash, E. J., Handy, L.C., & Hamerlynch, L.A., Behaviour Modification and Families: 11. Applications and Developments. New York: Brunner Mazel, Inc., 1975.
7. Ford, D. & Kennedy, R., Treatment in Residential Care: A Case Study. Australian Child x Family Welfare. 1, 3, 1976.

Legal Service Bulletin

A bi-monthly Independent Interdisciplinary Journal
Concentrating on Law in Society

Editor: B. A. Kev. Cohen
Lecturer in Law, Monash University

The Legal Service Bulletin is a publication written in layman's language dealing with the current law relating to aborigines, civil liberties, crime, family, landlord and tenant relationships, law reform, legal aid, juveniles, mental health, migrants, poverty, and prisons among other areas. Analytical and often provocative articles are presented in a lively manner intended to present a maximum of information as concisely as possible. Contributions come not only from lawyers but also from members of community interest groups, criminologists, court personnel, government officials, journalists, police and social workers. Regular features of the Bulletin include editorials, articles, recent developments, news, correspondence and reviews of publications.

SOME RECENT ARTICLES:

Women in Prison, by Viv Altman, Criminologist and Social Worker. The Family Court of Australia, by Ray Watson, Q.C., Sydney, now Mr Justice Watson of the Family Law Court. Aboriginal Juvenile Offenders at Groote Eylandt, By Sergeant Gilroy, Northern Territory Police Force.

LEGAL SERVICE BULLETIN

SUBSCRIPTION FORM

To: Editor, Legal Service Bulletin, P.O. Box 138, Mount Waverley, Victoria 3149.

Library .....	subscriptions	$12.00	Total .....
Individual .....	subscriptions	$ 9.00	Total .....
Student .....	subscriptions	$ 7.00	Total .....

Remittance enclosed $ ..... Make cheques payable to Legal Service Bulletin.

Name .....

Address .....

..... Post Code .....

Occupation ..... ACFW-12-76