New Database on Italian Economists: The fundamental aim of the project "Historical Archives of Economists" (ASE) is to provide a general guide to the manuscripts of economists, kept in Italy in repositories in libraries, in public and private archives, academies, museums, publishing houses, or at any other location. It is inspired by the idea that the development and dissemination of these "virtual archives" may lead to greater appreciation of the contribution of Italian economists to the science of economics. It is believed that this realization cannot but increase our critical awareness and cultural depth as economists. The ASE Website has various sections can be consulted on line at <http://www.cribecu.sns.it/ase/> or <http://www.sie.unian.it/>.
