
ADDENDUM

Field Experiments in the Global South: Assessing Risks, Localizing Benefits, and Addressing Positionality—ADDENDUM

Biz Herman, University of California–Berkeley, USA

Amma Panin, University of Louvain, Belgium

Elizabeth Iams Wellman, Williams College, USA

Graeme Blair, University of California, Los Angeles, USA

Lindsey D. Pruett, Cornell University, USA

Ken Ochieng’ Opalo, Georgetown University, USA

Hannah M. Alarian, University of Florida, USA

Allison N. Grossman, Stanford University, USA

Yvonne Tan, Goethe University Frankfurt, Germany

Alex P. Dyzenhaus, Cornell University, USA

Nicholas Owsley, University of Chicago, USA

DOI: <https://doi.org/10.1017/S1049096522000063>. Published by Cambridge University Press, 27 May 2022.

The authors’ names are listed in random order. The authors would appreciate if, wherever possible, citations to the work would indicate that randomized authorship was used. ■

REFERENCE

Herman, Biz, Amma Panin, Elizabeth Iams Wellman, Graeme Blair, Lindsey D. Pruett, Ken Ochieng’ Opalo, Hannah M. Alarian, Allison N. Grossman, Yvonne Tan, Alex P. Dyzenhaus, and Nicholas Owsley. “Field Experiments in the Global South: Assessing Risks, Localizing Benefits, and Addressing Positionality.” PS: Political Science & Politics (2022): 1–4. doi:10.1017/S1049096522000063.