Aims and scope

The aims and scope of The Aeronautical Journal are intended to reflect the objectives of the Royal Aeronautical Society as expressed in its Charter of Incorporation. Briefly, these are to encourage and foster the advancement of all aspects of aeronautical and space science. Thus the topics of The Aeronautical Journal include most of those covered by the various Specialist Groups of the Society, which include:

Aircraft design, aerodynamics, air law, air power, air transport, air navigation, airworthiness and maintenance, aviation medicine, avionics and systems, environmental issues, flight operations, flight simulation, fluid dynamics, fluid mechanics, general aviation, guided flight, human factors, human powered flight, light aviation, management studies, propulsion, rotorcraft, safety, space, structures and materials, structural mechanics, systems and test procedures and UAVs.

Papers are therefore solicited on all aspects of research, design and development, construction and operation of aircraft and space vehicles. Papers are also welcomed which review, comprehensively, the results of recent research developments in any of the above topics.

We recognise the inhibiting pressures of time and confidentiality and acknowledge that many of the design testing, manufacturing and operational problems that industry has to solve contain important information for the whole aerospace community. The Aeronautical Journal provides a platform for refereeing and presenting your work to an international audience.

Papers will be considered for publication in The Aeronautical Journal if they meet the terms and conditions listed in The Instructions for authors. If these are not met, the Editor reserves the right to withdraw the paper without redress, which may be at any time up to publication.

CONTENTS

Volume 117 Number 1195

September 2013

- J. Mariens, A. Elham and M.J.L. van Tooren
Influence of weight modelling on the outcome of wing design using multidisciplinary design optimisation techniques 871
- N. Anton, R.M. Botez and D. Popescu
Application of the weight function method on a high incidence research aircraft model 897
- R. Yadav and U. Guven
Aerothermodynamics of a hypersonic projectile with a double-disk aerospike 913
- T.R. Nada
One-dimensional model of a pulsed plasma thruster 929
- G.E. Dorrington
Buoyancy estimation of a Montgolfière in the atmosphere of Titan 943
- I. Guiamatsia, J.K. Ankersen and L. Iannucci
A study of mixed-mode composite delamination using enriched interface elements 959

The new Aeronautical Journal Manuscript Management system

The Aeronautical Journal now operates an online Manuscript Management System (MMS) which processes manuscripts from receipt to print. Authors must now submit their manuscripts directly to us through our website to be considered for review and publication. The whole manuscript review process including revisions is now carried out via our user-friendly online manuscript processing system. Papers now will only be considered for publication if they have been submitted through the MMS.

We hope this new automated system will lead to a speedier and more efficient way of reviewing manuscripts.

Manuscripts should be submitted at: <http://www.edmgr.com/aeroj> where easy-to-follow instructions will guide you through the process.

Front Cover. A wing is received for installation on a static structural testing airframe at Airbus' Toulouse, France A350 XWB final assembly line. (Airbus)
