American Political Thought

Redeeming Democracy in America

Wilson Carey McWilliams

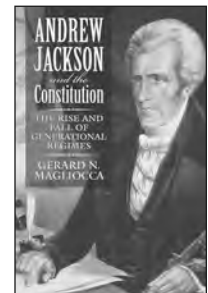

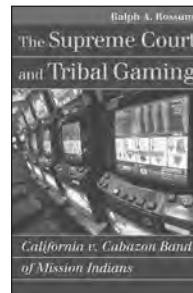

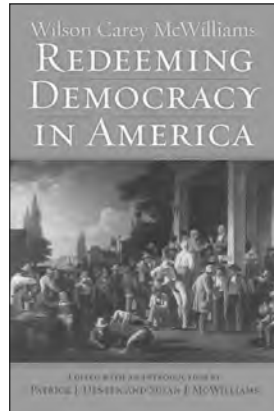

Edited with an introduction by Patrick J. Deneen and Susan J. McWilliams

“Dazzling. Carey McWilliams understood America—perhaps more deeply than any public intellectual in the past quarter century. This book offers us his bravura tour through American thought, history, literature, religion, law, and culture. It sparkles with wisdom, insight, and jeremiads. Powerful. Learned. Graceful.

Omnivorous. Brilliant. An altogether exhilarating read.”—James A. Morone, author of The Democratic Wish

“I don’t know a better combination of political philosophy and American politics, together with some history, than is displayed here.”—Harvey Mansfield, author of The Spirit of Liberalism

American Political Thought
336 pages, 1 photograph, Cloth $34.95

Landmark Law Cases and American Society

Peter Charles Hoffer and N.E.H. Hull, series editors

The Supreme Court and Tribal Gaming

California v. Cabazon Band of Mission Indians

Ralph A. Rossum

“Some view Cabazon as an emphatic ruling supporting tribal sovereignty, while others see it as a deeply compromised decision that elevated state government’s role in internal native affairs. Rossum deftly situates the case historically, legally, and culturally, and persuasively argues that this is one of the more important decisions ever handed down by the High Court.”—David E.

Wilkins, author of American Indian Sovereignty and the U.S. Supreme Court

216 pages, Cloth $34.95, Paper $16.95

New in Paperback

By One Vote

The Disputed Presidential Election of 1876

Michael F. Holt

“A marvelous example of Michael Holt’s brand of political history, By One Vote is rich in the details of political maneuver but also full of fresh and provocative insights. An impressive achievement.”—Michael Perman, author of The Road to Redemption: Southern Politics, 1869–1879

“All students of U.S. political history will want to read this book.”—Choice

American Presidential Elections
314 pages, 18 illustrations,
Paper $19.95

Andrew Jackson and the Constitution

The Rise and Fall of Generational Regimes

Gerard N. Magliocca

“This book is highly readable and captures, better than most, the strategies, contingencies, and ironies of rough-and-tumble politics while illuminating the large-order patterns of conflict and consensus that characterize American constitutional and political history.”—Political Science Quarterly

198 pages, 19 photographs, Paper $19.95

Blacks and the Quest for Economic Equality
The Political Economy of Employment in Southern Communities in the United States

James W. Button, Barbara A. Rienzo, and Sheila L. Croucher

"This is an exceptional work of scholarship that presents a comprehensive and compelling study of racial inequality in employment that also provides prescriptions for change. It's both highly readable and meets rigorous academic standards. It's not to be missed by anyone with a genuine interest in race and employment inequality."

—T. Wayne Parent,
 Louisiana State University

Capabilities, Power, and Institutions
Toward a More Critical Development Ethics

Edited by Stephen L. Esquith and Fred Gifford

The essays in Capabilities, Power, and Institutions extend, criticize, and reformulate the capabilities approach to development to better understand the importance of power—especially institutional power. In addition to the editors, the contributors are Sabina Alkire, David Barkin, Nigel Dower, Shelley Feldman, Des Gasper, Daniel Little, Asunción Lera St. Clair, A. Allan Schmid, Paul B. Thompson, and Thanh-Dam Truong.

216 pages | $60.00 cloth

Empathy and Democracy
Feeling, Thinking, and Deliberation

Michael E. Morrell

"Empathy and Democracy demonstrates the importance of empathy in the deliberative practices that make democratic government legitimate. Deftly interweaving empirical research on the role of empathy in deliberation with a normative theory of democratic legitimacy, Michael Morrell delivers a thoroughly researched, carefully argued book that makes important contributions to the field of political theory as well as to empirical political science."

—Sharon R. Krause, Brown University

232 pages | $60.00 cloth

The Political Responsibilities of Everyday Bystanders

Stephen L. Esquith

"The Political Responsibilities of Everyday Bystanders is an imaginative, practical, well-argued, and wonderfully written work of moral philosophy, political theory, and democratic education, all at once. . . . It is eminently thoughtful, and it promises, in the hands of citizen teachers, to help inculcate or evince the political responsibilities that 'everyday bystanders' (including students and citizen teachers themselves) have in the face of political challenges and even 'severe violence.'"

—James Farr, Northwestern University

256 pages | 9 illustrations | $54.95 cloth

Second-Wave Neoliberalism
Gender, Race, and Health Sector Reform in Peru

Christina Ewig

"Christina Ewig has written a first-rate book that makes contributions on several different levels. . . . Ewig's analysis is all the more impressive because it is informed by extensive fieldwork that she conducted in Peru over the course of several years. Besides the obvious appeal this book will have for specialists in Peru, it should be of great interest to students of comparative social policy and of the complex politics of gender, intersectionality, and historical legacies."

—Robert Kaufman, Rutgers University

Dapper Dan Flood
The Controversial Life of a Congressional Power Broker

William C. Kashatus

"Bill Kashatus has written the first comprehensive biography of Dan Flood, northeastern Pennsylvania's colorful and legendary congressman. This fascinating book sheds light on a vanished era in Congress—when the nation's business was done under the cover of darkness by those with seniority who knew the system and used it to their own ends."

"By insisting that we move beyond decentralization—and by showing how we should apply a common analytical framework to the study of decentralizing and recentralizing changes—Decentralization and Recentralization in the Developing World significantly broadens the scope of the literature on intergovernmental relations. This is a must read for students of subnational politics."

The End of Energy

The Unmaking of America's Environment, Security, and Independence

Michael J. Graetz

"A winner—and quite possibly the best and most important book from this outstanding political writer. The End of Energy is a beautifully written book on a fascinating and vital topic. Each chapter offers a gripping story, a history lesson, and a public policy moral. It sounds an alarm that we ignore at our peril: We keep ducking this problem, searching for easy answers (a technological fix) and doing foolish things (low prices). Graetz is out to wake us up."

— James Morone, Brown University, and author of Hellfire Nation

400 pp., 5 illus., $29.95 cloth

Digitally Enabled Social Change

Activism in the Internet Age

Jennifer Earl and Katrina Kimport

"A provocative look at how e-activism is changing the nature of contentious politics. Social movement scholars may want to re-think some of their assumptions."

— Lance Bennett, University of Washington, and Director, Center for Communication & Civic Engagement

Acting with Technology series • 272 pp., 7 illus., $33 cloth

Coming Clean

Information Disclosure and Environmental Performance

Michael E. Kraft, Mark Stephan, and Troy D. Abel

"Coming Clean does a wonderful job showing how, when, and why the provision of information about pollution releases in the EPA's Toxics Release Inventory can change behavior. Using original survey data and new statistical analyses, the authors illustrate how facilities and communities vary in the degree of their response to information about environmental releases. Regulatory scholars and policymakers interested in how information provision works should read this innovative book."

— James T. Hamilton, Duke University, author of Regulation through Revelation

Paths to a Green World

The Political Economy of the Global Environment
Second Edition

Jennifer Clapp and Peter Dauvergne

"An extraordinarily important book that hits a grand slam for its conceptual, theoretical, pedagogical, and practical breakthroughs. Paths to a Green World should be on the required reading list for any serious course on international environmental policy. I have used it in my course ever since the first edition, and will continue to do so until the day I retire."

— Benjamin Cashore, Yale University

344 pp., 30 illus., $27 paper

Beyond Resource Wars

Scarcity, Environmental Degradation, and International Cooperation

edited by Shlomi Dinar

"These chapters represent some of the best thinking in global environmental politics at the present time. Noteworthy for its focus on environmental cooperation rather than conflict, Beyond Resource Wars will quickly become an important part of the ongoing debate over the sociopolitical impacts of resource scarcity."

— Dennis Pirages, University of Nevada, Las Vegas

Game Theory and the Humanities

Bridging Two Worlds

Steven J. Brams

"This imaginative and innovative book should appeal not only to those with an interest in the individual cases, stories, and plays, but also to philosophers, historians, theologians, literary critics and some specialists in international politics whose concerns are broader."

— Frank C. Zagare, University at Buffalo, and author of The Games of July: Explaining the Great War

In his first book, the former New York governor and current CNN cohost offers a manifesto on the economy and the public interest.

A Boston Review Book • 96 pp., $14.95 cloth

Majority Judgment

Measuring, Electing, and Ranking

Michel Balinski and Rida Laraki

"In this path-breaking book, Balinski and Laraki make the case for a fundamentally new approach to voting, in which voters evaluate candidates in terms of a common language rather than simply ranking them. This is a highly original work that challenges traditional social choice theory and has important implications for the design of real-world electoral systems."

— H. Peyton Young, University of Oxford

Children Without a State

A Global Human Rights Challenge

edited by Jacqueline Bhabha

foreword by Mary Robinson

"This is an important and timely volume which will add significantly to the existing literature on migration and citizenship law. Childhood marks a status of less-than-full membership which renders individuals vulnerable as a matter of law and social practice in relation to adults. This is the first book-length study that systematically analyzes the interface between national status vulnerability and childhood."

— Linda Bosniak, Rutgers University, and author, The Citizen and the Alien: Dilemmas of Contemporary Membership

408 pp., 1 illus., $32 cloth

Explaining Foreign Policy

U.S. Decision-Making in the Gulf Wars

Steve A. Yetiv

“Whether or not Explaining Foreign Policy ultimately takes its place beside Essence of Decision as a seminal work in the field, the book serves the same function in challenging analysts to question conventional models and accommodate complexity in the scholarly study of foreign policy.”

—Perspectives on Politics
$25.00 paperback

The Dynamics of Democratization

Dictatorship, Development, and Diffusion

edited by
Nathan J. Brown

The explosive spread of democracy has radically transformed the international political landscape and captured the attention of academics, policy makers, and activists alike.

With interest in democratization still growing, leading political scientists assess the current state of the field, reflecting on the causes and diffusion of democracy over the past two decades.

$30.00 paperback

The Globalization of Martyrdom

Al Qaeda, Salafi Jihad, and the Diffusion of Suicide Attacks

Assaf Moghadam

“An excellent read. Moghadam is a leading expert in the study of Al Qaeda and suicide attacks and his expertise shines through . . . Well-researched and argued, this book deserves a close read by all scholars interested in questions of terrorism, Al Qaeda, and the way globalization is influencing the trajectory of terrorist groups.”

Politics & Gender

Editor:

Jennifer L. Lawless, American University, USA

Politics & Gender is an agenda-setting journal that publishes the highest quality scholarship on gender and politics and on women and politics. It aims to represent the full range of questions, issues, and approaches on gender and women across the major subfields of political science, including comparative politics, international relations, political theory, and U.S. politics. The Editors welcome studies that address fundamental questions in politics and political science from the perspective of gender difference, as well as those that interrogate and challenge standard analytical categories and conventional methodologies.
