INSTRUCTIONS FOR CONTRIBUTORS

Editorial policy

Financial History Review, published twice a year by Cambridge University Press on behalf of the European Association for Banking and Financial History e.V., is concerned with the development of financial and monetary matters, in the broadest possible terms, since the appearance of market economies. The journal is published in English and contributions should normally be submitted in that language. However, in cases of extreme difficulty, articles may be submitted in other languages and, if accepted for publication, it may be possible to arrange translation. All articles, including commissions, will be refereed.

The journal will publish two forms of article:

- those drawing on the fruits of current research in areas of interest to the journal and,
- articles which are designed to be research aids, as with commentaries on archival sources and bibliographies.

Submissions

All contributions and editorial correspondence should be sent to: Dr Duncan M. Ross, Department of Economic and Social History, University of Glasgow, Lilybank House, Bute Gardens, Glasgow G12 8RT, Scotland (d.ross@socsci.gla.ac.uk).

Submission of a paper will be taken to imply that it is unpublished (even in a language other than English) and is not being considered for publication elsewhere. Upon acceptance of a paper, the author will be asked to assign copyright (on certain conditions) to the European Association for Banking and Financial History e.V.

Contributors are responsible for obtaining permission to reproduce any material in which they do not own copyright, to be used in both print and electronic media, and for ensuring that the appropriate acknowledgements are included in their manuscript.

Manuscripts

Research articles should normally be of 8,000 words including footnotes, tables and any graphical or other illustrative material. Articles, which are 'research aids' should normally be shorter, at 5,000 words. Abstracts (to be supplied by the contributor in English, in addition to his/her native tongue) of each article will be published in English, French, German and Spanish. Intending contributors should send the following to Dr Ross:

- the manuscript, of which the first page should commence with the title of the article, followed by the name, affiliation, and full postal and email addresses for each author.
- a short title for use as a running page head.
- a statement of the article's length in number of words (including both text and footnotes), and a list of tables, graphs, maps and any other illustrative material. A table occupying one page of A4 manuscript can be considered as being equivalent to 300 words.
- an abstract of the contribution in English (and in the author's native tongue, if he/she is not a native English speaker) of some 100 words.
- a short description of work in progress and previously published work.

Articles should be submitted in both paper and electronic form. E-mail attachments are welcome and encouraged. Both paper and electronic submissions must include all details outlined above.

Preparation of manuscripts

- Manuscripts should be typed double-spaced throughout on A4, i.e. 29cm x 21cm., or 11" x 8". Wide margins should be left on all sides.
- Pages should be numbered consecutively, beginning with the title page, the page number being placed, ideally, at the top right-hand corner of the page.
- Footnotes should be typed, double-spaced, numbered consecutively and be grouped together at the end of the manuscript. Footnotes should solely be concerned with matters of source citation. Substantive footnotes, involving commentary or argument, should be avoided, such material being more properly contained within the body of the text. If an elaborate commentary on sources is required, and cannot be incorporated within the body of the article, it should form an appendix to the article (to be included in the total extent of 8,000).
- Articles may, if appropriate, be divided into subsections designated by Roman numerals centred on the page. Sub-headings within an article should be avoided; however, sub-headings, of up to three weights, may be incorporated in those articles designed to be research tools -- i.e. archival commentaries and listings, or bibliographies.
- Tables, maps and figures should be submitted on separate pages and grouped together in a section at the end of the manuscript. Please number tables/maps/figures consecutively with Arabic numerals, using that reference within the text, e.g. Table 1, Map 5, Figure 24. Their appropriate position in the body of the text should be indicated in the text as {please place Table 1 near here}.
- Contributors should follow exactly the stylistic conventions, set out below, when writing the final version of their articles. The Editors reserve the right to return a contribution accepted for publication solely on the grounds that it does not follow the conventions.

Conventions

- Spelling British spelling is preferred, using -ise in words with alternative -ize/ise.
- Foreign words or phrases in an English sentence should be underlined (for italic), except for proper names, or quotations or words in common usage.
- Quotations: follow the punctuation, capitalisation and spelling of the original source. Within the body of the text of an article, a quotation should begin, and end, with single quotation marks, with double quotation marks only used for quotations within quotations. Quotations of more than about 50 words should be broken off from the body of the text, by being indented from the left-hand margin as a separate block of text, without quotation marks. Extensive quotations from non-English language sources should be translated into English in the text and (if necessary) the original text supplied in a footnote.
- Numbers: spell out numbers up to ten, but use Arabic numerals thereafter and standard contractions, as with m for million. Spans of numbers should be elided to the smallest unit, e.g. 41-2, 195-8, 216-18. Percentages should be given in figures, with the words 'per cent' spelled out, e.g. 5 per cent; the sign % should be used in footnotes and tables. Standard fractions can be used as numbers.
- Dates: use 10 December 1948 in the text, 1930s (not 1930's), and the twentieth century (not the 20th century, or C20th). Dates should be contracted in the footnotes, hence 10 Dec. 1948.
- Ellipsis whether within, or at the end of, a sentence should be indicated by three spaced full stops.
- Citations given in footnotes must be full and clear at first reference; thereafter short titles should be used.
  - First reference to a book should include place (in anglicised form, e.g. Rome not Roma) and date of publication, e.g. H. M. Lucas, Capital and Finance in the Age of the Renaissance: a Study of the Fuggers and their Connections (1928; reprinted New York, 1963), pp. 24-30; thereafter: Lucas, Capital and Finance.
  - First reference to a chapter in a book should appear as: J. Bouvier, 'L'extension des réseaux de circulation de la monnaie et de l'épargne', in F. Braudel and E. Labrousse (eds.), Histoire économique et sociale de la France (Paris, 1979); thereafter: Bouvier, 'L'extension des réseaux'.
  - First reference to a journal article must include the volume number and date of publication, e.g. M. B. Levy and A. M. Andrade, 'A gestão monetária na formação do Estado Nacional', Revista Brasileira de Mercado de Capitais, 6 (1980); thereafter: Levy and Andrade, 'A gestão monetária'.
  - References to archives must include the name and location of the collection, and the file where the document can be found. In general, citations should follow accepted national styles, always giving an extended version for the first document cited from a source, e.g. Public Record Office, Kew, London [henceforth PRO]; Colonial Office Papers [henceforth CO]; 201/614, pp. 87-101, 111-24, and CO 309/139, pp. 150-6, dispatches and minutes, 8 May to 13 Jun. 1893.

All statistical sources should be fully referenced and, if not available in a published form, should be provided as a series, either within the text, or as an appendix.

Proofs

Typographical or factual errors only may be changed at proof stage. The publisher reserves the right to charge authors for correction of non-typographical errors.

Offprints

Contributors of articles and review articles (but not contributors of book reviews) shall receive 25 offprints of their articles free of charge. Additional offprints may be purchased if ordered at proof stage on the form provided.
