Association for Asian Studies

The Association is a scholarly, non-political and non-profit professional association open to all persons interested in Asian studies. The AAS seeks, through publications, meetings, and seminars, to facilitate contact and exchange of information among scholars of Asia and to improve an awareness of Asia by the general public.

Publications of the Association include:

JOURNAL OF ASIAN STUDIES, published quarterly. This distinguished journal includes articles both by Asian and Western specialists, review articles, and an extensive section of book reviews on Asian themes embracing virtually all academic disciplines.

BIBLIOGRAPHY OF ASIAN STUDIES, published annually. This publication is a comprehensive list of articles and books written in Western languages about Asia.

ASIAN STUDIES NEWSLETTER, published five times a year. This timely publication includes notices of fellowships, grants, and conferences, as well as job placement notices and information about the activities of the Association.

MONOGRAPHS, OCCASIONAL PAPERS AND REFERENCE SERIES, published periodically. This series emphasizes mature, critical scholarship, usually based on sources in Asian languages. To date, 31 volumes have been published.

REPRINT SERIES, published periodically. This series consists of reprints of selected articles from the Journal of Asian Studies. To date, 4 reprints have been published.

Other activities of the Association include: an ANNUAL MEETING held in the spring, devoted to planned programs of scholarly papers, round table discussions, and panel sessions on a wide range of problems on research and teaching and on Asian affairs in general; partial support of eight regional CONFERENCES throughout the United States for scholars and teachers concerned with Asian studies; an active area COUNCIL system which represents the four geographic areas of Asia (China and Inner Asia; Northeast Asia; South Asia; Southeast Asia); an active COMMITTEE structure and a JOB PLACEMENT SERVICE serving the many interests of the Association's membership.

Membership is open to all individuals interested in Asian studies. Categories and fees are:

SOUTH EAST ASIAN STUDIES

South East Asian Studies is a quarterly journal published by the Center for Southeast Asian Studies of Kyoto University. It is a unique interdisciplinary journal covering not only humanities and social science but also natural science. Papers appear either in Japanese (with English summary) or in English. Sample selections from the recent issues are:

Towards a History of Mon-Khmer: Proto-Semai Vowels, by Gérard Diffloth (English)

Ethnic Differences and Economic Change in a Local Malaysian Setting, by Robert L. Winzeler (English)

A Preliminary Report of a Study on Symbolism among the Buginese, by Narifumi Maeda (Japanese)

Rural Land Ownership and Development in the Malay Reservations of Peninsular Malaysia, by Phin-Keong Voon (English)

A Note on Land Tax Reform in Thailand, by Atsushi Kitahara (Japanese)

On the Consular Jurisdiction in Thailand, by Akiko Iijima (Japanese)

A Study of Political Legitimacy in Transition: A Case of the Philippines, by Yoko Yoshikawa (Japanese)

Nutritional Status in Thailand, by Atsushi Murai (Japanese)

Crop Distribution in the Central Basin of Burma, by Koji Tanaka & Tadayo Watabe (Japanese)

Those who wish to subscribe and/or contribute to the journal are kindly requested to write for further information to "The Japanese Society for Asian Studies, Kinki Hatsumei Center Bldg., 14 Kawaramachi, Yoshida, Sakyo-ku, Kyoto, Japan."

The Huk Rebellion

A Study of Peasant Revolt in the Philippines

Benedict J. Kerkvliet

This is a study of why peasants revolt. The particular rebellion in question—the Huk movement in the Central Plains of the Philippines—began after World War II, but its root causes existed earlier. Because Kerkvliet's account of the uprising considers its evolution in both a local and a regional framework, it should interest not only readers concerned with Philippine society but also those involved in comparative peasant studies.

A Caste in a Changing World

The Chitrapur Saraswat Brahmins, 1700-1935

Frank F. Conlon

In this narrative history of a single caste of western India, Conlon records its growth from a small rural group to an extensive urban community. He explores not only how modernization influenced the Saraswat Brahmins, but also how caste membership conditioned their response to forces of change.

THE ORIGINS OF THE COLD WAR IN ASIA YŌNOSUKE NAGAI and AKIRA IRIYE, Editors

In this volume sixteen leading scholars from Japan, the United States, and Great Britain provide the first comprehensive account of the cold war in Asia. Profiting from the recent partial opening of government archives, the essays suggest a situation in Asia after World War II substantially different from a bilateral conflict of opposing ideologies. $20.00

JAPANESE INTERNATIONAL NEGOTIATING STYLE

MICHAEL BLAKER

Utilizing original Japanese sources, the author analyzes eighteen cases to identify a distinctive Japanese style of bargaining in the half century before Pearl Harbor. In exploring the reasons for Japan's repeated successes at the negotiating table, the book portrays Japanese bargaining behavior as consistent and scrutable.

THE SOCIAL THOUGHT OF LU HSUN, 1881–1936

by
Pearl Hsia Chen

Detecting a genuine system inherent within the brief and seemingly disconnected sayings of Lu Hsun, Pearl Hsia Chen brings into light this most honored of modern Chinese writer's unique method of creating a "people's literature."

With a Preface on Traditional China's Economic Structure and Its Relation to Chinese Social Thought by Franklin S. C. Chen who assesses the reason for traditional China's failure to achieve an Industrial Revolution and who presents an economic interpretation of Chinese social thought.

CHINA OLD AND NEW

PRIMITIVE REVOLUTIONARIES OF CHINA

A Study of Secret Societies in the Late Nineteenth Century

by Fei-ling Davis

This study focuses on the relationship between Confucian orthodoxy and its counter-image, the secret society, at a time of maximum tension, the late nineteenth century. Against a background of a dynasty in decline, the author delineates the world of the Chinese secret society—its origins, aims and activities, membership and organization, rituals and sanctions. This world is then analyzed structurally as the expression of a basic conflict in Chinese society. Finally, the author places the analysis in historical perspective by considering the role of secret societies as an instrument of revolutionary change.

RADICAL CHANGE THROUGH COMMUNICATION IN MAO'S CHINA

by Godwin Chu

The Chinese Communist party in 1949 was confronted with a conformity to customs and traditions so overwhelming that the mere suggestion of a departure from them was psychologically disquieting. An effective means had to be found to bring about basic changes in the value system and social structure. Dr. Chu demonstrates that communication is an effective instrument of social change through an examination of six specific factors to development and through showing how communication in China is used as a basic social process.

DISCOURSE ON THE NATURAL THEOLOGY OF THE CHINESE

by Gottfried Wilhelm Leibniz.
*Translated and with an introduction and commentaries by Henry Rosemont, Jr.
and Daniel J. Cook*

Usually referred to as the "Letter on Chinese Philosophy," this is Leibniz' response to two works on Chinese religion sent him by Catholic missionaries. His discussion deals with the Chinese conception of God, universal principles, spiritual substance, souls, immortality, and the correlations between Leibniz' binary mathematical notation and the I Ching.
