

are enrolled. The application and all supporting materials must be received by April 1. Decisions will be announced before the end of April.

For an application, write to: Summer Institute on Women and Development, Women's Studies Research Center, 209 North Brooks Street, Madison, Wisconsin 53715. □

Scandinavian Seminars Offered for Summer

Det Danske Selskab, an institute for information about Denmark and cultural cooperation with other countries, is offering a number of seminars in Denmark, Sweden, Norway and Finland. The seminars will be conducted in English and guided by Scandinavian experts. Subjects include Design in Scandinavia, Scandinavian Architecture, Museums in Denmark, Education in Denmark, Special Education in Scandinavia, Care of the Aged in Denmark, and Women in Denmark. For costs and detailed programs, contact Det Danske Selskab 2, Kultortvet, DK-1175 Copenhagen K, Denmark. □

Hungarian Studies Program To Be Held in Ohio

From June 13 to July 22, 1983 an intensive six-week Hungarian Studies Program will be held in Ada, Ohio. Besides language instruction in Hungarian grammar, composition, and conversation, there will be courses dealing with the history, politics, culture, and society of East-Central Europe. The courses that will be offered include: A History of Hungary, A History of Hungarian Literature, Politics in East-Central Europe, Literary Selections, and Hungarian Folk Customs. A special feature of the program will be the option of participating in one week of field research (July 23-30) in the Toledo, Ohio Hungarian community.

The instructional staff consists of native Hungarian speakers who are also specialists in other fields (history, political science, literature, or folklore). The principle of total immersion is followed throughout the program. Frequent group contact enables the instructors to use Hungarian as the language of communication as well as of instruction. The students in turn are encouraged to use Hungarian among themselves.

The program also features weekly presentations of Hungarian films, invited guests lecturing on special topics, and optional group tours to points of interest nearby. Involvement in these and similar activities is encouraged on the principle that language learning is facilitated by frequent opportunities (and need) for practice.

A limited number of scholarships are available.

For additional information and/or application forms, please write to the above address, or to: Professor Andrew Ludanyi, Hungarian Studies, Department of History and Political Science, Ohio Northern University, Ada, Ohio 45810. □

Reports and Announcements

National Election Studies Completes 1982 Research Effort

The National Election Studies (NES) has completed its third major research effort with two post-election data collections focused on the 1982 congressional elections. The major component of the study includes approximately 1,500 face-to-face interviews of some 70 minutes duration with a national sample of people eligible to vote in November, 1982. A second component includes 1,000 telephone interviews, 55 minutes in length, with a random-digit-dialed national sample of the same population. The NES Board of Overseers and principal investigator were assisted in designing the study by an ad hoc committee consisting of David Brady, Rice University; Heinz Eulau, Stanford University; John A. Ferejohn, California Institute of Technology; Morris P. Fiorina, California Institute of Technology; Gary Jacobson, University of California, San Diego; Warren E. Miller (the NES principal investigator), Arizona State University; David O. Sears, UCLA; J. Merrill Shanks, University of California, Berkeley; and Raymond E. Wolfinger (chairman), University of California, Berkeley.

The 1982 Committee, appointed by the Board at its February meeting, drew on plans that had been formulated during 1980 and 1981 by the Board's Standing Committee on Congressional Elections Research. The Standing Committee, chaired by Brady, included Malcolm Jewell, University of Kentucky; James Kuklinski, Indiana University; David Mayhew, Yale University; and Barbara Sinclair, University of California, Riverside; in addition to 1982 Committee members Ferejohn, Jacobson, Miller, and Wolfinger. Working under severe time and money constraints, the 1982 Committee met in San Diego in conjunction with the meeting of the Western Political Science Association. The Board had instructed the Committee to preserve as much as possible from both long-term core items and the "congressional core" established in 1978 and 1980. The Committee was also asked to recommend how best to study phenomena that might be unique to 1982, as well as those respects in which the 1982 election might illustrate more general problems in the study of voting behavior.

The ad hoc committee anticipated that the principal theme in 1982 would be a "referendum" on the performance of the Reagan administration. Three aspects of this topic were given most attention: traits attributed to President Reagan, evaluations of different dimensions of the Reagan administration's performance, and issues, previously unrepresented in NES studies, that might be prominent in the fall election campaign.

The Committee's recommendations were considered by the Board at its June meeting, which was devoted largely to specifying questionnaire content and considering alternatives for research and development that would be needed in future studies. The Board monitored the campaign during the summer and early fall and made further adjustments to the questionnaire at its final review of plans for the study during its October meeting in Columbus, Ohio. As a result of this last review, it was possible to include items on such major, but perhaps transitory campaign themes as the nuclear freeze, the administration's "stay the course" appeal, and the "gender gap." Along with this attention to the contemporary, the Board was able to preserve virtually all of the congressional core items first developed in 1978.

Because many congressional district boundaries were not finally set until fairly late in 1982, it was not possible to consider a congressional-district-based sampling design for the 1982 study. The sample is, instead, the standard Michigan Survey Research Center area probability sample. Limited funds restricted the contextual data collection for 1982. Basic information about candidates and congressional districts will eventually be collected from public sources and made available as a part of the 1982 data collection some time in late 1983. Copies of the 1982 questionnaire are being distributed to everyone on the NES mailing list. Additional copies can be obtained by writing to: Ann Robinson, Center for Political Studies, University of Michigan, P.O. Box 1248, Ann Arbor, Michigan 48106.

In addition to the conventional face-to-face interviews, NES also conducted post-election computer-assisted telephone interviews (CATI) with a national sample of approximately 1,000 cases. Half the sample was interviewed by the University of Michigan Survey Research Center telephone interviewing facility; the other half, by the University of California Computer-assisted Survey Methods Program. The CATI component of the 1982 study was a research and development effort to permit comparison of the effects of telephone and face-to-face interviewing, an essential step in planning future studies. Many of the options being considered by the Board of Overseers for the 1984 study, and beyond, rest on the feasibility of replacing at least a portion of the long and complex NES face-to-face interviews with long telephone interviews. Some items least relevant to the planned analysis of methods differences were deleted from the face-to-face instrument in order to accommodate the somewhat shorter interview time thought possible with the use of the telephone. In other respects, except for those changes required by the absence of visual aids in the telephone interview, the two interview instruments are virtually identical. Consequently, although the primary motivation for the CATI supplement was research and development, the Board hopes that researchers will have an additional 1,000 cases to add to the standard 1982 sample for most descriptive and analytic purposes.

The data from the face-to-face interviews will be available for distribution through the Inter-University Consortium for Political and Social Research, no later than April 15, 1983. Researchers or teachers who wish to have an early start analyzing the 1982 data should submit their requests before the release date. Orders and inquiries should be directed to: Janet Vavra, ICPSR, P.O. Box 1248, Ann Arbor, Michigan 48106.

From its inception in 1977, it has been NES policy to provide equal access to NES data for all potential users. The only exception to this policy was established prior to the conduct of the 1980 study. That exception provides that Board members and NES staff can have limited early access to data for methodological research needed to guide pressing research design decisions that must be made by the Board. (See the announcement of this policy in PS, Winter 1980, pp. 20-21.) In order to complete planning for 1984, an analysis of CATI/face-to-face method differences will be carried out in January 1983. This will be prior to the public release of the data, but the results will be used exclusively in internal memoranda prepared for the Board. The results of that analysis will also be used to guide decisions as to the ultimate date for release of the telephone interview data.

Planning for the Future

For nearly two years the Board has had to hold in abeyance long-term planning for research that spans more than a single election. This focus on the short-term has been a result of budgetary stringency. We have received encouragement, however, to return to our original longer-term view. We also hope to receive an interim National Science Foundation grant to support planning for the 1984 election study. The Board has appointed a committee to assist it in planning for the future, first for a study of the 1984 election and, more generally, for later studies. The 1984 Committee is chaired by Donald R. Kinder, University of Michigan. Other members are Richard A. Brody, Stanford University; Stanley Feldman, University of Kentucky; Stanley Kelley, Princeton University; Ethel Klein, Harvard University; Thomas E. Mann, American Political Science Association; Warren E. Miller, Arizona State University; Steven J. Rosenstone, Yale University; David O. Sears, UCLA; and Raymond E. Wolfinger, University of California, Berkeley. A detailed "stimulus letter" describing the scope of this committee's assignment as it was conceived by the Board has been sent to the nearly 1,000 scholars on the Board's mailing list. Anyone wishing to receive a copy of this letter can write to: Raymond E. Wolfinger, Chairman, Board of Overseers, National Election Studies, P.O. Box 4668, Sather Gate Station, Berkeley, California 94704.

Plans for the 1984 study will be further developed by the Board and the 1984 Committee in February 1983. Following a second meeting of the Committee, a pilot study will be carried out to test the formal measurement properties of new measures that are candidates for inclusion in the 1984 study. The results of the pilot study will be assessed by the Committee and reported to the Board and the NES staff. Final decisions on the design and content of the 1984 study will be made by the Board in October 1983.

Given the tight time schedule, it is quite possible that recommendations for future studies will not reach the Board in time for its February meeting. Nevertheless, such recommendations should be forwarded because the planning process is once again focused on the future, and the Board wants very much to respond as broadly as possible to the users of NES data in defining the future agenda for the National Election Studies. □

Data Available From Roper Center

The Roper Center has announced the availability of three resources: data from the 1982 General Social Survey, the data tape file of the 1980 Church Membership Study, and a guide to resources on American race relations.

The General Social Survey was conducted early each year from 1972 through 1978; in 1980 and in the spring of 1982 by the National Opinion Research Center of the University of Chicago. Each of these comprehensive investigations of opinions, values, and cultural orientations contains approximately 400 variables. The sample size for the 1982 survey is 1,506.

Complete information about the content and methodology of the 1980 Church Membership Study will be found in the printed publication, Churches and Church Membership in the United States, which is available from the National Council of Churches, 475 Riverside Drive, New York, New York, or the Glenmary Research Center, 4606 East-West Highway, Washington, D.C. 20014.

The computer tape of the study consists of 3,156 records, one for each county of the United States. Census divisions are used for county equivalents in Alaska, and the independent cities in Virginia are combined with their surrounding counties. Each record contains the following information: state-county and regional code; county name; county population 1980; denominational code for each group reporting in that country; number of churches for each denomination reporting in that county; number of communicant, confirmed, full members; number of total adherents.

Finally, the Roper Center is distributing A Guide to Roper Center Resources for the Study of American Race Relations. This compendium is a comprehensive index to all questions in the Roper Center data archive regarding black/white relations in the U.S. Over 3,000 questions surrounding racial issues are presented chronologically within subject categories. In addition, there is an index by study that enables the reader to quickly identify those data sets that are particularly rich in measures of racial attitudes. This publication covers 45 years of American public opinion.

For more information, contact User Services, The Roper Center, Box U-164 R, The University of Connecticut, Storrs, Connecticut 06268; (203) 486-4440/4482. □

NSF Renews General Social Survey

The National Science Foundation has renewed the General Social Survey Project for five years. Annual surveys will be fielded in 1983-87. This will extend the time series started in 1972 and permit an expansion of cross-national research, methodological experiments on survey design, and other topical supplements. In addition the 1983 survey will contain a supplement on the sociology of religion funded by Andrew Greeley. The General Social Surveys are conducted by the National Opinion Research Center, University of Chicago, under the direction of James A. Davis, Harvard University, and Tom W. Smith, NORC. □

National Data Program Publishes Bibliography

The National Data Program for the Social Sciences at the National Opinion Research Center has just released the 4th edition of the Annotated Bibliography of Papers Using the General Social Surveys. This 200+-page bibliography abstracts over 750 scholarly papers, articles, and other publications that employ the General Social Surveys. It includes an index by variable so one can quickly identify the literature on specific items and topics. The Annotated Bibliography can be ordered for $6 (postage included) from: Library, National Opinion Research Center, 6030 So. Ellis Avenue, Chicago, Illinois 60637. □

Southern Meeting Held Successfully

Despite a last-minute change in the location and dates of the annual meeting of the Southern Political Science Association (SPSA), the conference ran smoothly and successfully. The Baltimore Hotel, where the meeting was originally scheduled to be held, abruptly went out of business last summer. As a result, SPSA President Deil Wright of the University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill, quickly found an alternative location, the Stadium Hotel in Atlanta, and rescheduled the meeting for October 28-30, a week earlier than originally scheduled.

Clifton McCleskey of the University of Virginia now succeeds Wright as President of SPSA. James A. Anderson of the University of Houston chaired the 1982 Program Committee. Charles S. Bullock, III, of the University of Georgia is heading the 1983 Program Committee for the upcoming meeting which will be held in Birmingham, Alabama, November 3-5. Other members of the 1983 Program Committee are listed in the section on Upcoming Conferences in this issue of PS.

At the business meeting of the SPSA, a number of changes were made in the operation of The Journal of Politics including imposition of fees for submitting manuscripts for consideration (see accompanying story).

Awards

In addition, three awards were given for outstanding scholarship. David F. Prindle of the University of Texas was awarded the V. O. Key Book Award for the best book on Southern politics. Prindle's book is entitled Petroleum Politics and the Texas Railroad Commission, published in 1981 by the University of Texas Press.

Alan Abramowitz of SUNY, Stony Brook, won the Pi Sigma Alpha best paper award for his paper, "Party Elites and the Nationalization of Southern Politics," presented at the 1981 Southern meeting in Memphis.

Southern Illinois University graduate student Eric Herzik was awarded the Brooks/

Irvin Brown of Atlanta University and Beth Schapiro, executive director of Research Atlanta, attending the annual meeting of the Southern Political Science Association.

Cole Publishing Company award for the best paper presented by a graduate student at the 1981 meeting for his work, "Governors and Issues: A Typology of Concerns."

Two other awards, the Scott Foresman Publishers award for the best paper on women and the political process and the Professor Joan Lomax award for the best paper by a faculty member from a less-than-four-year school, were not given this year. □

James Prothro (left) introduced Southern president Deil Wright (right), both of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, for Wright's presidential address at the Southern meeting.

Journal of Politics Sets New Policies

The business meeting of the 1982 Southern Political Science Association, acting in plenary session, adopted an executive council resolution to impose a $10 fee per manuscript submitted to the Journal, effective April 1, 1983. The submission fee closely approximates the actual cost of processing a manuscript through the editorial phase and does not reflect the Journal's production costs which are currently borne by the total membership through annual dues. All manuscripts submitted on or after April 1, 1983 should be accompanied by a check for $10 made payable to The Journal of Politics. The fee will be waived for authors in countries with blocked currencies.

The editors of the Journal ask all individuals wanting to act as referees for manuscripts to write to them indicating their availability and their areas of specialization. Please address all correspondence to: Professor Allan Kornberg, Editor, Department of Political Science, Duke University, Durham, North Carolina 27706.

Henceforth, the Journal will adopt the following policy, paralleling that of the American Political Science Review:

"Articles which draw on survey data not documented through the Inter-University Consortium for Political and Social Research should include the following information in an appendix: (1) a description of the population sampled, including definition of the geographical area covered, and details about how the sample was drawn sufficient to permit fairly exact replication; (2) response rate (for quota designs, the number of refusals); and (3) exact question wordings." □

International Seminar for Philosophy Holds Meeting

The International Seminar for Philosophy and Political Theory held a conference, October 12-15, 1982, at the Center for Interdisciplinary Studies at the University of Bielfeld (West Germany) on the theme "Politics and Its Boundaries: Rhetoric, Persuasion, and Political Action." Papers were presented by Peter Weber-Schafer (Bochum), William C. Havard, Jr. (Vanderbilt), Victor Gourevitch (Wesleyan), George Graham, Jr. (Vanderbilt), Kenneth Minogue (London School of Economics), Klaus Vondung (Siegen), and Dante Germino (University of Virginia). The papers and commentaries will be published as Volume II in the series Politics and Its Boundaries. For further information write to Jurgen Gebhardt, Universität Erlangen-Nürnberg, or to Dante Germino, University of Virginia. □

Conference Held on Politics in Britain

The seventh annual Conference of the United Kingdom Politics Work Group of the Political Studies Association was held at Queen's University Belfast, September 20-24, 1982. The conference was supported by grants from the Nuffield Foundation and Queen's University. Dr. R. A. Wilford of Queen's was the conference organizer. A total of 31 participants, from professors to postgraduates, attended from all parts of the United Kingdom, the United States, Canada and Spain. In addition to formal conference sessions, the group toured Belfast, and visited the Institute of Continuing Education, at Magee College, Londonderry.

A total of 16 papers on all aspects of United Kingdom politics was presented, and two papers viewing the territorial dimension in comparative perspective. The conference welcomed the publication of two books arising from its work: The Territorial Dimension in UK Politics, edited by Peter Madgwick and Richard Rose, and Understanding the United Kingdom: The Territorial Dimension in Government by Richard Rose.

The group's eighth annual conference will be held in Oxford in late August, 1983, organized by Peter Madgwick. To advance the analysis of the territorial dimension in politics, sessions will be organized jointly with the Institute of British Geographers.

A full list of Conference papers is available from the group's convenor, Professor Richard Rose, Director, Centre for the Study of Public Policy, University of Strathclyde, Richmond Street, Glasgow, G1 1XQ. □

Pacific Northwest Group Gathers for Annual Meeting

The Pacific Northwest Political Science Association held its annual meeting at Western Washington University in Bellingham, Washington, October 28-30, 1982. Ten panels were presented covering politics as an avocation, natural resources politics, constitutional and public law, politics and economics, Canadian and Canadian-American studies, state and local politics, electoral politics, political theory, international politics, and comparative federalism. The principal speaker was Edward Greenberg, professor of political science and acting director, Institute of Behavioral Science, University of Colorado, Boulder, who addressed the membership on "The Meaning of the Reagan Revolution: Class, Economy and State." Congressman Al Swift (D-Wash., Second District) gave a luncheon address entitled "Congress: An Institution in Transition or in Crisis?" David Smeltzer of Portland State University, PNWPSA president, addressed the group with "Comments on a Fragmented Discipline; or Political Science in the Age of Reaganomics."

The Association officers for 1982-83 are: President: Ralph Miner, Western Washington University; President-Elect and Program Chair for the 1983 meetings: Robert Blank, University of Idaho; Secretary-Treasurer: Curtis Johnson, Lewis and Clark College; Executive Council Members: Orville Cope, College of Idaho; Eugene Hogan, Western Washington University; Steve Johnson, University of Alaska, Anchorage; Dick Olufs, Pacific Lutheran University; Henry Perry, Highline Community College; and Elliot Tenofsky, Linfield College; and Ex Officio Member, David Smeltzer, Portland State University; Archivist: James Holton, Lewis and Clark College.

The 1983 meetings of the Association are to be held in October at a site to be chosen in the Portland, Oregon metropolitan area. □

British Politics Group Elects Executive Committee

James Alt of Washington University, St. Louis, and Philip Norton of the University of Hull have been newly elected to the Executive Committee of the British Politics Group. Reelected to the committee for new two-year terms are James Christoph of Indiana University, Leon Epstein of the University of Wisconsin, and Anthony King of the University of Essex. Anthony Birch of the University of Victoria was elected to a second one-year term as president of the group. □

Women's Caucus Selects Officers

The Women's Caucus for Political Science unanimously elected an uncontested slate of new officers for 1982-83 at the 1982 business meeting held in conjunction with APSA's Annual Meeting. The officers are: Marian Lief Palley of the University of Delaware, president-elect; Emma Jackson of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, secretary; and Janet Clark of the University of Wyoming, treasurer. Jeanne-Marie Col of Sangamon State University is president, and Carolyn Weinstock of the Pratt Institute is editor of the Women's Caucus' newsletter Quarterly. □

Commerce Department Issues Report on Change

The National Bureau of Standards in the Department of Commerce has issued its final report on the experimental technology incentives program. The report, Government and Innovation: Experimenting with Change, reviews the 200 experiments and studies undertaken to understand how government policies affect inventiveness in the private sector. The document can be obtained by asking for the report by name and number (PB 83-134486) and sending $16 to the U.S. Department of Commerce, National Bureau of Standards, Washington, D.C. 20234. □

News of the Profession

Dissertation Award in Social Studies Education Announced

The National Council for the Social Studies is sponsoring an Exemplary Dissertation Award competition in order to recognize excellence in research conducted by doctoral candidates in areas related to social studies education. The author of the selected dissertation will receive a certificate of merit and $150.

The award will be conferred on the basis of dissertation research in the pursuit of the doctoral degree. Research is broadly defined to include experimental, conceptual, historical, philosophical, and other modes appropriate to the problem investigated. For a dissertation to be selected for the award, it must make a significant contribution to the field of social education. The dissertation must also be outstanding in the areas of problem statement, analysis of related literature, methods and procedures, analysis of data, and discussion of results.

To be eligible for the 1983 award, the dissertation must have been completed between June 16, 1982 and June 15, 1983. Nominations should include four copies of an abstract, not more than three 8½ x 11" pages, typed, double-spaced, submitted to the chairperson by June 15, 1983. The heading of each copy of the abstract must include the author's name, address, telephone number, name of institution where degree was completed, name of major advisor, and date of degree completion. Include a self-addressed, stamped envelope for acknowledgement. After reviewing the abstracts, the Subcommittee may ask for the submission of the completed dissertation by August 1, 1983. Send materials to: Dennie L. Smith, Department of

Curriculum and Instruction, Memphis State University, Memphis, Tennessee 38152. □

Nominations Sought for Law and Society Honor

Starting this year the Law & Society Association will award annually the Harry Kalven Prize to honor the scholarship that has most fruitfully contributed to the collaboration of law and social research. The prize of $500 will be given in memory of Harry Kalven, a pioneer in the field of interdisciplinary legal research. The first prize will be awarded for: (a) a book, monograph, major article, or series of articles, by one or more authors, (b) involving collaboration of law and social research, and (c) published in the English language since 1965. The award will be given at the 1983 annual meeting of the Law & Society Association June 2-5, 1983 in Denver, Colorado.

Nominations for the award, which will be evaluated by the Harry Kalven Prize Committee, should be sent with full citation to David C. Baldus, College of Law, Syracuse University, Syracuse, New York 13210 before April 1, 1983. If possible, nominations should be accompanied by three copies or offprints of the nominated work. □

British Politics Group Offers Dissertation Prize

The Executive Committee of the British Politics Group announces the 1983 competition for the Samuel H. Beer Dissertation Prize. The prize is intended to stimulate interest in the study of British politics among graduate students, thereby helping to develop a new generation of scholars in the British field. The 1982 winner of the prize was Warren Fishbein, whose Wage Restraint by Consensus: British Attempts to Mobilize Trade Union Support for Incomes Policy, 1965-79 was written under the direction of Suzanne Berger at MIT.

The Executive Committee invites nominations for the award of £125 for the best doctoral dissertation in British politics completed during the calendar years of 1980, 1981, or 1982. Only a supervising professor may nominate a dissertation and each professor is limited to a single nomination.

A copy of the nominated dissertation, along with a brief letter of nomination, should be sent to the Executive Secretary of the British Politics Group, 503 Ross Hall, Iowa State University, Ames, Iowa 50011 no later than March 15, 1983. The principal criterion for awarding the prize shall be the dissertation's contribution to the understanding of British politics, whether that understanding derives from exclusively British research or from a comparative study. The winner of the award will be announced at the BPG's annual business meeting at the APSA convention in Chicago. □

AAAS Announces Competition

Submission of entries in the 1983 competition for the American Association for the Advancement of Science (AAAS) Socio-Psychological Prize of $1,000 is invited. Established in 1952 with funds donated by Arthur F. Bentley, the prize is awarded annually for a meritorious paper that furthers understanding of human psychological-social-cultural behavior. The prize is intended to encourage in social inquiry the development and application of the kind of dependable methodology that has proved so fruitful in the natural sciences.

Entries should present a completed analysis of a problem, the relevant data, and interpretation of the data in terms of the postulates with which the study began. Purely empirical studies, no matter how important, and purely theoretical formulations, no matter how thoughtful, are not eligible.

The winning entry will be selected by a committee of judges appointed by the AAAS Executive Officer in consultation with officers of the AAAS sections on Anthropology (H), Psychology (J), and Social, Economic, and Political Sciences (K). The prize will be presented at the 1984 Annual Meeting in New York City, May 24-29.

Unpublished manuscripts and manuscripts published after January 1, 1982 are eligible. The deadline for receipt of entries is September 15, 1983. For entry blank and instructions, write to the AAAS Executive Office, Eighth Floor, 1776 Massachusetts Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036. □

Public Administration Journal Changes Name

The Southern Review of Public Administration will become the Public Administration Quarterly beginning with Volume 7, which will appear in June of 1983. The journal editors will remain Jack Rabin of Rider College and Thomas Vocino of Auburn University at Montgomery.

Single article manuscripts (in triplicate) should be sent to: Jack Rabin, Editor, Public Administration Quarterly, Center for Public Policy and Administration, Rider College, Lawrenceville, New Jersey 08648. Symposium proposals should be sent to: Thomas Vocino, Editor, Public Administration Quarterly, Auburn University at Montgomery, Montgomery, Alabama 36193. The subscription price for four quarterly issues remains $16 for individuals and $24 for institutions. Subscriptions can be entered by sending checks or institutional purchase orders to: Subscriptions, Public Administration Quarterly, Auburn University at Montgomery, Montgomery, Alabama 36193. □

Conference Proceedings on Urban Policy Ready

The publication of the proceedings of a conference between American and European scholars about urban policy and research is now available. The conference, which has been attended by governmental researchers, research firms and university researchers from the social sciences, has provided a lively overview about the state of art in the field of applied urban research. It has stimulated the comparison in respect to current national urban policies and research trends and given a lively picture about theoretical developments and new research approaches. The topics cover problems of urban research policies, metropolitan and land use planning, urbanization, housing and urban movements. The success of the meeting has led to the decision to have a second meeting organized in France in September 1983 by D. Bechmann in Grenoble. Information on this may be obtained from: T. N. Clark, The University of Chicago, Department of Sociology, 1126 East 59th Street, Chicago, Illinois 60637; or Gerd-Michael Hellstern, Freie Universität Berlin, Z16, Sarrazinstrasse 11-15, D-1000 Berlin 41.

News of the Profession

The useful compendium, which may as well serve as a reference tool on what is going on and who does what in urban policy, is available from: Bundesforschungsanstalt für Landeskunde und Raumordnung (BfLR), P.O. Box 20 01 30, D-5300 Bonn 2. (The three volumes cost $20 together, including postage.) □

Proceeding Published on Third World Conference

The 8th Annual Third World Conference Proceedings, organized around the theme "Global Interdependence and National Development," is now available for purchase. The proceedings is an interdisciplinary collection of original papers, prepared by 31 scholars, that address issues and events of Third World systems. This cross-section of original documents covers general third world topics as well as specific papers on Africa, Latin America, the Near East, black women, national development and policy analyses.

Copies of the proceedings are available in limited quantity at a cost of $18 per two-volume set. This price includes publishing, printing and mailing costs and will only last as long as the supply.

72 PS Winter 1983

Anyone interested in purchasing a copy(ies) of the Proceedings should send name, address, and publication number with a check or money order in the amount of $18 payable to Governors State University, Park Forest South, Illinois 60466, (312) 534-5000. □

Human Rights Internet Offers Publications

Human Rights Internet, an international communications network and clearinghouse on human rights, offers a variety of materials for scholars and activists in the area of human rights, including Human Rights Directory: Western Europe, Human Rights Internet Reporter, Teaching Human Rights, Human Rights Directory: Latin America, Africa, Asia, North American Human Rights Directory, Human Rights Directory: Eastern Europe. These publications are available through Human Rights Internet, 1502 Ogden Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20010, (202) 462-4320. □

Russell Sage Announces Newsletter on Grants

The Russell Sage Foundation has begun publication of a newsletter, Reporting. Copies may be obtained without charge by writing Publications Department, Russell Sage Foundation, 112 E. 64th Street, New York, New York 10021.

The first issue, 12 pages, features a report on new grants, an analysis of a potential field of Foundation research (terrorism) which the Foundation decided not to enter; an essay by Marshall Robinson, president of the Foundation, on the rationale for publishing Reporting; a column of potpourri on developments in the social sciences; and sections on books and visiting scholars and fellows. □

Navy Adds New Transcripts to Oral History Program

New information on subjects ranging from the attack on Pearl Harbor to the Gulf of Tonkin incident is offered in nine new volumes of transcripts added to the Naval Institute's oral history collection during the past year.

Now available in three locations, these new oral biographies include the memoirs of a former chief of naval operations, a commander-in-chief of the Pacific Fleet in the 1960s, a navy patrol plane pilot who was the first to take off from Pearl Harbor during the air raid, the submarine skipper who sank the Awa Maru in 1945, a professional football player who became one of the first navy frogmen, a founding father of the U.S. Navy's underwater demolition teams, a director of the Strategic Systems Project Office, and an admiral whose naval and civilian experiences ranged from guided missiles and fiscal policies to petroleum allocation. In addition, there is a special volume of transcripts devoted entirely to interviews with seven of the key participants in the development of the Polaris weapon system.

The bound volumes of transcripts that make up the entire USNI collection, now numbering about 135 volumes, are to be found at the Naval Academy's Nimitz Library in Annapolis and at the Naval Historical Center in Washington, D.C., as well as at the Naval Institute. Part of the collection is available at the Naval War College in Newport, Rhode Island. A card catalog, covering more than 20,000 subject entries, gives the researcher ready access to all information recorded. A brochure listing each volume by title will be available within the next few months.

"We welcome inquiries," comments

U.S. oral history director Paul Stillwell, who is actively engaged in making these oral histories available to everyone with an interest in naval history. He may be reached at United States Naval Institute, Annapolis, Maryland 21402; (301) 268-6110. □

Sabbatical Scholars Invited to Bristol

The Department of Politics in the University of Bristol welcomes scholars wishing to spend all or part of their study leave in England. It has ten members of staff who teach a full range of courses. The resources of the University and of Avon County Library would be at the disposition of any visitor, and the department can provide its guests with a room, the usual facilities, and membership of the university. The university library has a good European section, and the law library is an official repository for documentation on the EEC. The department has a collection of cuttings from major European newspapers such as Le Monde, Frankfurter Allgemeine, and Die Zeit. The department also subscribes to Pravda and to Tribuna Ludu. The university library has a good collection of books on American politics, a complete set of the Supreme Court reports and a run of Congressional Quarterly Weekly Reports. It also houses a unique collection of election manifestos from British constituencies. Accommodation will of course have to be found, but Clifton and the surrounding area contain many flats at reasonable rents. For more information contact Michael Lee, Department of Politics, 77/79 Woodland Road, University of Bristol, Bristol, United Kingdom BS8 1UT. □