

Contents

Cluster on Gender and the “Great Man”: Recovering Philosophy’s “Wives of the Canon”

- 587 Jennifer Forestal and Menaka Philips
Gender and the “Great Man”: Recovering Philosophy’s “Wives of the Canon”
- 593 Terrell Carver
“Mere Auxiliaries to the Movement”: How Intellectual Biography Obscures Marx’s and Engels’s Gendered Political Partnerships
- 610 Arlene Saxonhouse
Xanthippe: Shrew or Muse
- 626 Menaka Philips
The “Beloved and Deplored” Memory of Harriet Taylor Mill: Rethinking Gender and Intellectual Labor in the Canon
- 643 Ross Carroll
The Hidden Labors of Mary Mottley, Madame de Tocqueville

Articles

- 663 Sandrine Bergès
Lucretia and the Impossibility of Female Republicanism in Margaret Cavendish’s Sociable Letters
- 681 Stephanie R. Larson
Survivors, Liars, and Unfit Minds: Rhetorical Impossibility and Rape Trauma Disclosure
- 700 Simoni Iliadi, Kostas Theologou, and Spyridon Stelios
Is the Lack of Women in Philosophy a Universal Phenomenon? Exploring Women’s Representation in Greek Departments of Philosophy

Review Essay

- 717 Kelly Fritsch
The “Bio” Politics of Matter and Mattering for Feminist Engagements with Biosocial, Biocultural, and Posthuman Embodiment

Notes on Contributors