

PUBLICATIONS

PUBLICATION NOTES

CLIPPING AND INDEXING SERVICE

Information Services on Latin America (ISLA) now offers a clipping and indexing service on Latin America. It provides a monthly air mail listing of the previous month's clippings on Latin American events from the weekly Le Monde English edition and seven major U.S. daily newspapers (The Christian Science Monitor, The Journal of Commerce, the Los Angeles Times, The Miami Herald, The New York Times, The Wall Street Journal, and The Washington Post). These clippings are organized by country and are reproduced on approximately 150 pages (300 sides). The service also provides an extensive semi-annual index, organized by country, foreign organization, and personal name.

The service gives comprehensive coverage of political, diplomatic and economic news, and editorials, and selective coverage of cultural, scientific, and social events, book reviews, and letters to the editor. A one year subscription costs $190. One month samples are available for $18. For information and subscriptions, write to ISLA, Box 4267, Berkeley, California 94704.

INTER-AMERICAN UNIVERSITY OF PUERTO RICO PRESS

In 1970 the Inter-American University announced the establishment of a press which will publish a journal, monographs, and books. This new university press is interested in examining manuscripts in English or Spanish on topics related to Puerto Rico, the Caribbean, or other Latin American topics. For further information write: Editorial de la Universidad Interamericana, P. O. Box 1293, Hato Rey, Puerto Rico 00919.

LATIN AMERICAN URBANIZATION

Scarecrow Press recently published a new combination bibliography-directory, Latin American Urbanization: A Guide to the Literature, Organizations and Personnel by Martin H. Sable, University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee. This all-in-one source book covers all fields of knowledge and activities with respect to Latin American cities.

The work is in three sections. Part I is a detailed bibliography of 7,000 books, pamphlets, periodical articles, conference proceedings, documents, and theses published world-wide. Parts II and III consist of directories of research centers, working organizations in urbanization and allied fields, and specialists in these fields.

NATIONAL ATLAS OF CUBA

The new Atlas Nacional de Cuba (Natsionalnyi Atlas Kuby) has appeared through a cooperative effort of the Cuban and Soviet Institutes of Geography of the Academies of Sciences. The Cuban version of the atlas is in Spanish, while the Soviet version is in the Cyrillic alphabet. The atlas project was initiated in April 1965 by the Institute of Geography in Havana under the supervision of the chief editor and president of the Academy of Sciences of Cuba, Antonio Nuñez Jimenez. The Cuban Institute of Geography directed and coordinated the research work of the 40 institutions participating in the preparation of the atlas. Soviet cartographers served as consultants in editorial and compilation work on the atlas.

The 144-page volume includes 105 maps in color, 23 pages of text, and a seven-page index of geographical names. The maps are divided into the following categories: general, physical, agricultural, industrial, cultural, historical, and population. Some maps also show the larger cities of Cuba. Approximately half of the maps deal with the natural features of the Cuban archipelago. Explanatory text accompanies each group of maps. The emphasis throughout the atlas is on the comparisons of pre- and post-revolutionary statistical data.

The atlas is priced at approximately $15. The Joint Publications Research Service (JPRS) of the U.S. Department of Commerce has issued a complete translation of the National Atlas of Cuba. Copies of Translations on Latin America, No. 525, National Atlas of Cuba (JPRS 53167), May 19, 1971, may be ordered from the National Technical Information Service, Springfield, Virginia 22151 for $6 each.

THE WIND THAT SWEPT MEXICO

Originally published in 1943, and for some time a prized collector's item, The Wind that Swept Mexico has been reprinted by the University of Texas Press. The text written by Anita Brenner has been completely reset and the plates have been remade from exhibit prints furnished by the New York Public Library. No other changes from the original addition have been made. The exhibition copies of the 184 historical photographs originally assembled by George R. Leighton have been given to the Institute of Latin American Studies, University of Texas at Austin.

LATIN AMERICAN URBAN RESEARCH

Sage Publications, Inc. announces a new series: Latin American Urban Research. Volume I (1971) focuses on urban migration and marginality, urban culture—values and norms, government institutions and decision-making, and policy problems. This first volume was edited by the series editors: Francine F. Rabinovitz and Felicity M. Trueblood. (See book listing on p. 164.) Volume II (1972) is devoted to "Regional and Urban Development Policies: A Latin American Perspective" and is edited by Jorge Hardoy and Guillermo Geisse. Volume III (1973) is tentatively planned to encompass a selection of papers on the politics of urbanization in Latin America.

A new volume will appear in late spring or summer of each year. A standing order for Latin American Urban Research makes each future volume available as it is published at the special prepublication price of $12.50. For further information, write: Sage Publications, Inc., 275 South Beverly Drive, Beverly Hills, California 90217.

NEW AND SUSPENDED PERIODICALS

The new Journal of Caribbean History is published in May and November each year by the Department of History, University of the West Indies. The first and only issue of Volume I appeared in November 1970. The journal carries articles on aspects of Caribbean history, including the history of mainland territories in North, Central, and South America where it is related to the Caribbean, research notes, and book notices. The cost of an annual subscription is $3.60 (£1.50). Single issues can be purchased for $2.10. Articles and editorial correspondence should be addressed c/o the Department of History, University of the West Indies, Mona, Kingston 1, Jamaica. Inquiries concerning subscriptions should be addressed to Ginn and Company Limited, 18 Bedford Row, London W.C.1R 4EJ, England.

Latin American Research Review

The Center for Latin American Studies, University of Pittsburgh, in cooperation with the University Center for International Studies, has begun to publish the Cuban Studies Newsletter. The first issue of the Newsletter appeared late in 1970 and will be published twice a year. The publication provides a bibliography of books, pamphlets, articles, and book chapters on Cuba. Volume 1, No. 2 included a list of more than 100 periodicals published in Cuba during the period 1959–1970. Other sections contained information on statistical compilations published in Cuba and an international list of suppliers of Cuban research materials. The chairman of the editorial board of the newsletter is Carmelo Mesa-Lago. For information, write the Center for Latin American Studies, University of Pittsburgh, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania 15213.

Desarrollo Indoamericano is a Colombian publication now in its fifth year. It publishes brief essays and notes on Latin American economic and social development and regularly includes book reviews. The director and editor is José Consuegra. For information write to Desarrollo Indoamericano, Apartado Aéreo 15122, Barranquilla, Colombia.

The Church and Society Movement in Latin America, now publishes ISAL Abstracts, the English edition of Fichas de ISAL (Iglesia y Sociedad en América Latina). The publication appears bi-monthly and includes documentation of current Latin American events with selected commentary, bibliographical abstracts, and book reviews. A yearly subscription costs $6.00. Direct inquiries and correspondence to: Latin American Department, National Council of Churches, Room 622, 475 Riverside Drive, New York, New York 10027.

The International Journal of Politics, a new quarterly, began publication in the spring of 1971. It contains translations of material that appeared originally in scholarly journals, books, and legal documents throughout the world. Volume 1, No. 1 contained an article by Jorge Giusti on "Organizational Characteristics of the Latin American Urban Marginal Settler." The annual subscription rate for individuals is $15.00 and for institutions, $50.00. For information write to the International Arts and Sciences Press, 901 North Broadway, White Plains, New York 10603.

Problemas del Desarrollo: Revista Latinoamericana de Economía is published three times a year by the Instituto de Investigaciones Económicas of the Universidad Autónoma de México. In its first issue, Volume I, No. 1, the journal carried scholarly articles and sections devoted to books, periodicals, and meetings. The price of a yearly subscription is $7.00 and $2.00 per single issue. Address all correspondence to: Problemas del Desarrollo, Instituto de Investigaciones Económicas, UNAM, México 20, D.F., Mexico.

PUBLICATIONS

The Centro Interdisciplinario de Desarrollo Urbano y Regional, CIDU, of the Universidad Católica de Chile publishes the new Revista Latinoamericana de Estudios Urbano Regionales, EURE. The journal which first appeared in spring 1971 will be published three times a year. It will include major articles on urban development, information on activities of the Center, descriptions of current research projects, and a list of major meetings and conferences on urban and regional development. The journal is sponsored by the Consejo Latinoamericano de Ciencias Sociales (CLACSO). The subscription rate is $8 a year or $3 per single issue. For further information write: Revista EURE, Casilla 16002, Santiago, Chile.

The World Meetings Information Center has begun to publish World Meetings: Social and Behavioral Sciences, Education, and Management. Volume I, No. 1 appeared in January 1971. Each issue is a two year registry for future meetings, completely revised and updated quarterly. The cost of a yearly subscription is $35 in the United States and Canada. Subscriptions and correspondence should be directed to: World Meetings Information Center, 824 Boylston Street, Chestnut Hill, Massachusetts 02167.

CORRECTION

In Volume VI, Number 3, p. 185, LARR reported that beginning with the 1971-72 academic year, students at the University of Pittsburgh could work toward a Certificate in Latin American Studies. The Graduate Certificate Program has been in effect for five years. However, the Undergraduate Certificate is new in 1971-72.