THE SCIENCE OF MIND AND BRAIN

J. S. Wilkie

THOUGH it is not yet possible to form any general theory of the relations between mental phenomena and the physiological processes taking place in the brain, a great deal is known in detail about this subject. The author has endeavoured to gather this information together from the various sources, attention being focused upon direct studies of the higher centres of the brain, rather than upon inferences derived from the theory of calculating machines. The fruitful suggestion of Cybernetics are not, however, entirely neglected.

Reliability

in delicate Surgery

The THERATOR MINOR
DIATHERMY, Type MME 3

For the most delicate electro-surgery, the Therator Minor Diathermy reliably provides two distinct cutting-currents, ideal respectively, for ophthalmic and neuro-surgery. Output is valve-generated, perfect coagulation being assured by careful selection of component values. Current intensity is regulated by a single knob and is repeatable at pre-selected control positions. A de luxe set of electrodes and mobile trolley complete the equipment if required. Further information is freely available.

INSTRUCTIONS TO AUTHORS

Strict observation of the following requirements will save intending authors considerable time and worry, and will facilitate the publication of papers submitted.

(1) Authors should consult a current issue to see how a paper should be presented. They should consult General Notes on the Preparation of Scientific Papers, published for the Royal Society by the Cambridge University Press, 200, Euston Road, London, N.W.1 (price 2s. 9d. post free).

(2) The title should be brief and contain no sub-heading. This should be followed by the author's name, his qualifications and his present appointment.

(3) Omit a summary of the literature when this has been adequately summarized elsewhere.

(4) For reasons of economy, case-histories of patients can be published only when they are of exceptional scientific interest.

(5) Diagrams and graphs must be drawn in black ink with properly printed lettering. If they have to be redrawn by the printer, the cost, which may amount to several pounds, will be charged to the author.

(6) Tables and graphs should be kept as few as possible. If they number more than a few, the author must be prepared to pay part of their cost.

(7) Any deviation or difference that might be due to random sampling must, if it is to be discussed in its general, scientific significance, be first shown, by calculation of the appropriate probability, to be significant statistically.

(8) All references should be given at the end of the paper, in alphabetical order, and in the following form :

SMITH, A. B., J. Ment. Sci., 1950, 95, 493.

In the body of the paper they should appear as : Smith (1950).

(9) When the proof arrives from the printer it is for the correction of printer's mistakes only. Larger alterations can be made only with the Editor's permission and if the author is willing to defray the cost.

(10) The author will receive 6 reprints of his paper free of charge. If further reprints are required the order should be sent direct to Messrs. Adlard & Son, Ltd., Bartholomew Press, Dorking, Surrey.

(11) A paper sent to the Editor-in-Chief is, as a rule, sent to one of the panel of Referees set out on the cover of the Journal for his opinion. Papers are as a rule not rejected until a second or further opinion have been received.
